Market Prices Reflect Expected Enthusiastic Reception of Administration's Plan to Reduce Crop by 3,000,000 Bales.

15 MEETINGS SET IN FULTON COUNTY

S. D. Truitt to Explain Proposal and Pass Out Pledges; Plan Hailed as "Salvation of South."

Spurred by a sensational advance in cotton to the highest spot figure it has reached in more than two years, cotton farmers of Georgia today will begin signing agreements which are expected to reduce the acreage of the state nearly 3,000,000 acres and further boost the price of the staple to around 12 cents, the pre-war average level.

On the eve of the drive to cut 10,000,000 acres and 3,000,000 bales from cotton production in the south, cotton jumped $4.25 a bale, wheat passed the $1 mark, corn shot up to a new high, stocks swung into action with substantial increases and oats, rye and barley made sensational gains.

Atlanta spot cotton closed at 10.30 cents a pound, more than twice the quotation for June 26 of last year, when it was a flat 5 cents. It was higher than the quotation of 10.05 cents a pound in March, 1931.

Fulton Farmers Meet Today.
Fulton county farmers will swing into line with others in every section of the state and south today and during the week at least 15 meetings will be held in various sections of Fulton. S. D. Truitt, county agriculture agent, with an advisory board of five appointed by his office, will explain the workings of the acreage reduction plan and pass out pledges which farmers will sign. The agent said he would complete the meeting series this week and believed that within ten days pledges to plow up 8,000 acres—the county's quota—would be in hand.

Tentative quota assigned to the states Monday in Washington sets Georgia's acreage reduction at 934,500 acres, placing this state fifth in the amount of cotton to be ploughed up. Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi and Oklahoma have reduction quotas of more than a million acres each.

Cash payments of $7 to $20 per acre will be made by the government to farmers who agree to retire from production at least 25 per cent of their acreage. Local committee will pass on the productivity of the land.

U. S. Prepares to Reveal Names of Gold Hoarders

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP)—Attorney-General Cummings expects soon to start publishing the names of gold hoarders as a step preliminary to their prosecution. The attorney-general said he expected the names of those holding the largest amount of gold would be published first to be followed by the names of the remainder of 185 persons who have refused to turn in $1,141,819 in gold.

Cummings said his agents had talked with 4,013 of the 15,000 persons who withdrew gold during the bank panic of February and March. Of that number 284 persons turned in gold amounting to $714,141 at the visit of the agents and 3,594 persons said they had turned in $23,207,700 in the metal and in gold certificates.

The attorney-general said publicity had been a potent factor in causing many persons to turn in gold and he intended to publish the names of hoarders in the hope it would cause them to turn in the metal and avoid prosecution.

COUZENS DEMANDS DEBTORS' RELIEF IN W. E. C. SPEECH

American Delegate Also Urges Public Works Program As Progress Is Made on Wheat.

By the Associated Press.
France is bringing tremendous pressure on Great Britain, it was authoritatively learned last night, to hit the pound to the franc in a stabilization scheme excluding the American dollar.

Orestes Ferrara, Cuban secretary of state, plans to emphasize an appeal today for world-wide co-operation in restoring sugar prices by pointing to "economic war" as the alternative. Japanese quarters expressed dissatisfaction with progress of the conference and expressed conviction that direct tariff negotiations between interested countries would provide better results.

Senator Couzens, American delegate, told the economic conference yesterday it was time to make a concrete move to relieve debtors and pleaded for adoption of his public works program.

Australian objections to the American wheat restriction plan were believed removed by a formula devised in an American-Australian conference. India, world's largest holder of silver, indicated her adherence to the American silver rehabilitation plan.

Assistant Secretary of State Moley decided to hurry his arrival in London by leaving his ship at Cobh, Irish Free State, and completing his trip by airplane.

American quarters discounted views that his arrival might alter the United States monetary policy or result in war debt developments.

Neville Chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer, urged negotiations between debtors and creditors, as did Senator Couzens, and cited the complaint that creditors are not organized.

Foreign ministers of Great Britain and Soviet Russia started negotiations.

Gangster Coll's Widow Charged With Murder

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP)—Lottie Coll, widow of the slain gangster Vincent Coll, was ordered held on a first-degree murder charge tonight in connection with the slaying last Wednesday of a 22-year-old Bronx girl. Two men held with Mrs. Coll since last Friday, when they were arrested in a midtown hotel on a charge of unlawful possession of firearms, also were ordered arrested for murder.

The order was issued by District Attorney Samuel Foley, of the Bronx after one of Mrs. Coll's companions, allegedly confessed the Bronx girl, Molly Schatz, was struck by a bullet intended for a jewelry salesman.

Ventre was quoted by Foley as saying Thomas Pace, Mrs. Coll's other companion, fired three shots at the salesman when he fled from an attempted holdup.

Pulse of the South Beats Faster
And Life Is Gay as Cotton Hits 10c

By JAMES H. STREET.
GREENVILLE, Miss., June 26.—(AP)—Cotton went to 10 cents a pound today.

And there was jubilation down here where the staple means a roof over the head and beans in the pot. "Ten-cent cotton!" It's more than a market quotation. There is magic in the words and music in the syllables. The pulse of the delta, where cotton growing is a habit and meriment is a way of life, rises and falls with the cotton market and the Mississippi river. The river is falling. The market is rising. And folks down here believe old King Cotton has come again into his own.

"Cotton, sub. has gone to 10 cents," say the planters as they sit on the

Georgia Public Service Commissioners Fight Removal Action

Categorically denying all of the charges of misfeasance, malfeasance, and neglect of duty, the five members of the Georgia Public Service Commission Monday began fighting an ouster petition filed with Governor Talmadge against them by the Atlanta Federation of Trades and the Georgia Federation of Labor. The commissioners are shown above as they appeared at the hearing Monday. From left to right they are Vice Chairman Perry T. Knight, Commissioner Jule W. Felton, Chairman James A. Perry, Commissioner Walter McDonald and Commissioner Albert Woodruff. The inset is of Jack C. Savage, attorney for the labor organization. Staff photo by George Cornett.

FULTON APPROVES WORKS PROGRAM

U. S. Plans Call for Courthouse Annex, Many Road Projects.

An important public works program, which includes construction of a courthouse annex, to house a county jail, construction of a new almshouse and a number of road and bridge projects, was outlined for Fulton county Monday, the funds to come from the federal government under the provisions of the recently passed industrial recovery act.

The program was adopted at a meeting of the county commission and the county's representatives on the city-county organization which will function under the provisions of the act. The program was outlined by Commissioner Walter C. Hendrix, chairman of the county board's public works committee.

Under the provisions of the federal act $3,000,000 is available for county projects. The road and bridge projects are expected to come out of Georgia's $10,000,000 federal road fund when and if it is obtained.

The county committee is composed of A. G. Maxwell, J. Sid Tiller, G. Starr Peck, Walter S. Dillon, Walter C. Hendrix and George F. Longino. Improvement Program.
The program to be outlined to the general committee as coming under the industrial recovery act follows:
1. Building of a courthouse annex with a jail on the top floor. (This is different from the city plan to build a joint jail and police station.)
2. Construction of a building to be separate from the courthouse for the joint housing of the juvenile court and a juvenile detention home.
3. Building of a new almshouse on county-owned property in the southwest part of the county, with white and colored divisions. The making into a public park, with golf course to get the same cargo.

Wall Street-Ford Feud Blamed For Closing of Detroit Banks

DETROIT, June 26.—(AP)—A witness' charge that a long-standing Wall Street plot to "strangle" Henry Ford financially lay directly behind the closing of two national banks in Detroit tonight rested in the records of a one-man grand jury investigating the city's involved banking affairs.

The charge, the most sensational in two weeks of open testimony, was made by Herbert R. Wilkin, Detroit banker, in detailing his knowledge of affairs leading up to the closing of the National Bank of Commerce, which, with the First National Bank, Detroit, did not reopen after the Michigan banking holiday.

"Wall Street believed it had a chance, by tying up Ford's deposits in the Michigan banks," declared Wilkin.

DELAY ADMITTED IN HARRIMAN CASE

Senator Neely, Former U.S. Attorney, Near Fight During Hearing.

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP)—Prosecution of Joseph W. Harriman on charges of irregular conduct of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Co. was delayed by an assistant United States attorney-general, a senate subcommittee was told today, because it entailed the possibility of a "major banking crisis" throughout the country.

The hearing almost broke up in an exchange of flattery when Senator Matthew W. Neely, of West Virginia, accused the witness, former Assistant United States Attorney-General Nugent Dodds, of attempting to "white-wash" the matter.

Dodds, who was in charge of the criminal division at the time, told the committee he alone was responsible for the delay and declared it was a "common thing."

"It was done frequently," he said, "not only at the request of individuals and clearing houses but of congressmen and senators. Some of the senators on the committee have made such requests."

Later Senator Neely asked Dodds if he did not think there had been an "unreasonable delay" in the Harriman case.

False Entries Charged.
"Senator, I wouldn't want to say there has been," replied Dodds. "I don't know of a national bank in the country that hasn't had false entries in its statements to the public."

Senator Neely expressed surprise. Dodds remarked he had "a lot to learn to get the same cargo."

"I hope," replied the senator, "I haven't as much to learn about that as you have to learn about your business as attorney-general, such as letting thieves run wild in the country and ravage banks."

"Your opinion is not of the slightest interest to me," responded Dodds. "I have no doubt of it, but you've

HEARINGS TO OPEN ON TEXTILE CODE

Labor Questions Will Be Discussed by Operators With Johnson.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP)—The first move in American history to regulate industrial wages under governmental supervision opens tomorrow with hearings upon a code of fair competition presented by two-thirds of the nation's cotton textile operators.

The session at which the national recovery act will get its initial test will be presided over personally by Hugh S. Johnson, the administrator. While Johnson's organization made ready for the first hearing tomorrow, Secretary Roper met with a committee of 49 industrial leaders that had been called to advise with the commerce department upon emergency steps to end the depression and upon long range planning to prevent future economic slumps.

Gerard Scope, president of the General Electric Company, was elected chairman of this committee, which will meet monthly. An executive committee will hold interim sessions with government officials.

The textile code is designed to cover all manufacturers of cotton yarns and cotton woven fabrics, whether as a final processor or as part of the general manufacture.

Acting upon the request of Johnson, the code left general business practices to a later agreement and covered only the labor questions. A 40-hour work week for each person is prescribed, with a minimum wage in northern plants of $11 a week and $10 in the south.

The textile manufacturers are hopeful that an agreement would be reached among themselves for elimination of child labor and modification of stretch-out system.

The stretch-out system, under which there is no limit to the number of machines a worker may be compelled to attend, has been regarded by labor as the outstanding weakness in the facts of financial operations running into millions of dollars.

Couzens Missing.
One member will be missing, Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, the frosty-haired multi-millionaire, who gives liberally of his money to the poor and delights in helping Peoria slant the spotlight of publicity on the financial operations of the wealthy.

He is in London—only republican member of the American delegation to the world economic conference—trying to unravel the tangled threads of world affairs.

Peoria was still busy today in New York gathering the last shreds of evidence for the investigation. He arrives tonight with his brief case bulging with documents. Most of them deal with the vast network of steel rails, locomotives and luxurious coaches that is called the Pennsylvania railroad.

Interested in Pennroad.
More particularly, Peoria is interested in the Pennroad Corporation, a railroad holding company that bloomed in the lush times of April, 1929—a

Joan Crawford Offers To Come to Doug's Side

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP)—Joan Crawford, "very much concerned" about the condition of her pneumonia-stricken former husband, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., has offered to come to his bedside in a New York hospital.

The young actor was reported so much improved tonight, however, that he has decided against asking his former wife to make the journey from Hollywood at this time.

That was the information given out from the home of Mrs. Jack Whiting, Fairbanks' mother-in-law. Miss Crawford, who recently obtained an interlocutory divorce decree on cruelty grounds, has telephoned the Whiting home every night since Saturday when Fairbanks was taken to the hospital.

The actress has expressed "great anxiety" over his illness, it was said at the Whiting home, and has volunteered to come east any time she is needed.

STATE ROAD HEAD FAILS IN ATTEMPT TO GET U. S. FUND

Status Unchanged, Says Thomas MacDonald After Conference at Capital With Wilhoit.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP)—J. P. Wilhoit, of the Georgia highway board, conferred today with Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the bureau of public roads, regarding the resumption of federal highway aid payments to his state.

MacDonald said afterwards that the status of the recent order to stop payments to Georgia was not changed and that there would be no change until the legal status of the Georgia highway administration was definite. Governor Talmadge recently ordered several members of the highway board removed and called in national guardsmen to enforce his orders.

Approximately $10,000,000 in new federal aid has been allocated to Georgia under the public works bill, in addition to final payments from last year's allocation.

MacDonald said he discussed the situation in Georgia at length with Wilhoit, who said earlier in the day that his mission here was chiefly to gather "information" regarding conditions under which the present "stop payment" order would be withdrawn.

"There is a serious legal tangle down here and it will have to be disposed of before the order is changed," MacDonald said.

LULL NOTED IN ATLANTA IN HIGHWAY CONTROVERSY

With Governor Talmadge tied up in a hearing on the removal of the members of the public service commission, there was a lull in the Atlanta sector in the highway department war, attention being shifted to Washington, where Commissioner Wilhoit was seeking to obtain Georgia's $10,000,000 fund.

The governor continued under guard as he presided over the hearing, the national guardsmen being instructed to keep off all process servers. It is agreed between the governor and the sheriff's office that all litigation shall first be presented to Adjutant General.

Miss Elsie Blair, of 935 Peachtree street, N. E., apartment 1, was slugged and robbed late Monday night by a negro burglar who forced his way into her residence. She was not seriously injured and was treated by a private physician.

Miss Blair and Miss Ollie Wingo were in the apartment when the negro entered. He threatened them with a pistol and stole a purse containing $2 in cash from Miss Blair. When she attempted to jerk the purse from him, the negro hit her on the head with the butt of his pistol. He escaped with the money.

Tennessee Episcopal Bishop Asks Repeal of Prohibition Amendment

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 26.—(AP)—I'm taking four specific reasons, a statement today from the Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Gailor, of Memphis, bishop of Tennessee and former head of the Episcopal Church of America, said, "I am in favor of the repeal of the 18th amendment."

The reasons were enumerated as follows:
"The amendment was adopted without a just and adequate effort to ascertain the mind and will of all the people. As a summary law it ought not to have been imposed upon a respectable minority. I believe that such laws should be passed only by practical unanimity of opinion."

The law has incited and encouraged crime and lawlessness of every kind and has taken revenue from the government and given it to bootleggers and racketeers.

"I am in favor of the repeal because, as a southern man, I have been taught to believe in states' rights, and that no single group of states ought to be permitted to force their peculiar views of manners and morals upon all the states of the union."
"The repeal of the amendment will leave the decision of the question of prohibition to the individual states, and will not abrogate any law on the subject that the people of Tennessee may see fit to enact."

The statement was issued through headquarters of the Tennesseans for Repeal of the 18th Amendment, which is leading the anti-prohibition campaign in preparation for the statewide election July 20.

LAWYER'S CHARGE DENIED BY FELTON AND JUROR IN CASE

Attorney for Butler Ice Company Claims Commissioner Aided Father, Power Company's Counsel, in Hearing of Suit.

5 MEMBERS DENY CHARGES OF LABOR

Attack on Board by Savage Marks First Day; More Witnesses Will Appear Today.

A member of the public service commission, who, with his colleagues, is fighting the ouster action of the Georgia Federation of Labor, Monday was accused of aiding his father in the handling of a court case for the Georgia Power Company and he immediately presented the testimony of a juror in the case who denied that the commissioner took any part in the proceedings.

The commissioner is Jule W. Felton Jr., who was alleged to have aided his father, Jule Felton Sr., in a case tried at Butler early in January of this year.

The five members of the public service commission Monday began defending themselves against the ouster action filed by the labor organization.

The testimony was offered in the first witness to appear before Governor Eugene Talmadge, who is conducting the ouster proceedings, and came after the governor had halted temporarily the responses of the five commissioners in which they categorically denied the charges on which the labor group seeks the ouster of the board members. Each commissioner replied individually to the charges, specification by specification, the reading of the answers requiring most of Monday's session, which are being held in the hall of the house of representatives.

Company Valuation Hit.
In addition, the labor organization offered testimony and documentary evidence tending to show that the commission had agreed to use the Georgia Power Company's sworn statement on its valuation made for the comptroller general for taxation purposes but had fixed its own valuation on the company for rate-making purposes.

The testimony against Commissioner Felton was the only evidence submitted against an individual member of the commission, although one witness informed the governor, in answer to a question from him, that certain

Two More States Vote On Repeal Plan Today

By the Associated Press.
Indiana and Massachusetts yesterday voted on the repeal of the prohibition amendment while California and West Virginia prepared for a vote today on the prohibition question.

New York's 150 wet delegates, at a convention today, will ratify repeal.

A preliminary to the Texas vote on August 26 was also planned for today. Prohibitionists and anti-prohibitionists arranged Lone Star State conventions to choose candidates for their respective states.

One of the Massachusetts repeal delegates—there were no anti-repeal representatives—at the convention yesterday was James Roosevelt, son of the president. He left the presidential schooner Ambergick II to be at the convention.

Indiana had chosen 246 repeal delegates and 83 anti-repeal delegates at an election on June 6.

Both sides had worked hard in West Virginia, at one time listed a dry state.

In Detroit yesterday, Postmaster-General Farley, chairman of the democratic national committee, predicted prohibition would be "out of the constitution by Christmas" and said he believed Alabama, Arkansas and Tennessee would vote wet. The first two vote on July 18; Tennessee on July 20.

Drivers Must Use Great Care; Even So, Insurance Is Needed

Summer will be here for three or four months to come. During the warm, sunny days and especially in the late afternoons, the highways are full of automobiles going and coming, and people are constantly walking on sidewalks and crossing the streets.

More people being out of doors during summer months, more pedestrians are injured; more people riding in cars, more people are subject to accidents.

RING-NECKED SNAKES.

Last Saturday morning a man brought two small snakes, both very badly mutilated, to The Constitution office for identification. Not knowing that they were harmless snakes, he had killed them in his yard. They were at once identified as Diadophis punctatus, or Eastern Ring-necks.

This is one of the commoner snakes in this part of Georgia, and is quite handsome in color. On the back it is slate gray, and underneath is bright coral red or orange. This color is made more pronounced by the presence of a row of black dots down the middle of the belly. The most striking feature, seen from above, is a yellow band across the neck back of the head, which is responsible for the popular name. Twelve inches is a good length for this species, although occasional specimens may be larger.

The ring-neck is a night hunter, hiding by day under logs or stones in friendly semi-darkness. Of all snakes, this is one of the most docile and friendly. Wild specimens may be picked up at once and will submit to any amount of handling. It is so clean and trim in appearance that it is often kept in a live box as a pet. It feeds readily on small beetles and other hard-bodied insects, and may be kept indefinitely if given enough water and food.

In the wilds ring-necks are often found in association with the red-bellied snake and DeKay's snake, and another small serpent known as Virginia valeriae. As far as I know, this last-named snake has no common name. All of these small Colubrid snakes are lively, and make interesting inhabitants of the terrarium. You may be interested in making a terrarium along with an aquarium; in that case, let me recommend that you get a few of these small snakes to watch. Just be careful not to keep them with the cannibalistic king snakes or the ever-hungry turtles. Your interesting small snakes will show up missing some morning, while the guilty murderer will refuse his ordinary food.

There will be another article in this column tomorrow.

HOTELMEN IN 9 STATES HIT TELEPHONE RATES

Group in Atlanta Plans Petitions to Utility Rates Commissions.

A general reduction in telephone rates to all hotels in nine southern states will be asked of each state public utility commission within the next 30 days, according to Arthur F. Landstreet, of Pensacola, Fla., permanent chairman of the Southern States Hotel Utilities Commission, which was formed Monday at the Piedmont hotel.

Representatives of the state hotel associations of Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, North and South Carolina, Virginia, Florida, Mississippi and Tennessee Monday drew a petition asking the reduction which will be presented simultaneously in each of the states to the public service commission. The proposed reduction will apply principally to special equipment in hotels.

Hotel men charged the rates to hotels in the southern states were unequal in various states and often unfair. The nine states represented are served by the Southern Bell Telephone Company.

GRAND JURY ACTION DISCLOSES ESCAPE OF 5 PEN PRISONERS

Escape of five federal prisoners since February was revealed Monday when the federal grand jury returned indictments against the five on charges of escaping from a federal penal institution. Three escaped from honor farm No. 2 in DeKalb county and two from the penitentiary farm.

Those indicted are: Charles Enos, serving a year and a day from Wheeling, W. Va., for violation of the national motor vehicle theft act, and Frank Darnell, doing 15 months on a similar charge from Birmingham. Both escaped from the penitentiary farm on February 2.

Nelson Harris escaped from the honor farm on June 13. He was doing 15 months on a prohibition conviction at Mobile. Homer Jones escaped from the honor farm on May 20. He was doing a year and a day on conviction at America of falsely impersonating a federal officer. Willie A. Wilson escaped on February 10 from the honor farm. He was doing five years on an auto theft conviction at Anderson, S. C.

The indictments set out no details of the escape.

BROTHERS AWARDED HONORS AS STUDENTS

The two sons of Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Purdom, of 1251 Briarcliff road, Atlanta, won special school honors this year when they graduated from Emory University and Druid Hills High school.

Thomas Purdom, of Emory, won a fellowship to Boston university, and Walton Purdom won a scholarship to Washington and Lee University. The fellowship which Thomas won was given in recognition of his scholastic and athletic work. During the course he will teach in the college he attends and hopes to win a master's degree at the end of one year. His campus work included: Intercollegiate debate team; member of the debate council; member Tau Kappa Alpha and Delta Tau Delta fraternities; political science club; vice president, inter-fraternity council; secretary athletic council; member Few Literary Society; assistant manager of the chess club; campus editor of the Emory Wheel, and active in Y. M. C. A. Work.

Walton Purdom, who will study engineering at Washington and Lee, maintained an average of A during his four years in high school, was president of the freshman class, charter member and president of the Haddock Literary Society, member of the inter-school debate team and is a pledge to Delta Tau Delta.

Youth's Neck Broken When Butted by Mule

Three weeks ago Herman Barfield, 18, was harnessing a mule at his home at Dunwoody. The mule became unruly and wound up by butting heads with Barfield, causing the youth severe pains in the neck. A local doctor gave him some liniment which he rubbed on his neck to no avail.

The Atlanta press will be well represented at the weekly luncheon of the Lions Club at 12:30 o'clock today at the Henry Grady hotel. Joe Wolfe will be "managing editor" of the program and Julian Harris, advertising manager of The Constitution, will speak on "Highlights of Journalism." Other Atlanta newspapermen who will be present are Ralph McGill, of The Constitution; John Paschal, of The Atlanta Journal, and Olin Bass, of the Georgian.

As an added attraction, famous journalists of a past era will be "present" as follows: Pop Gunn as Samuel Boles, of the Springfield Republican; John Paul Jones as Charles Dana, of the New York Sun; Gus Kelsor as Horace Greely; Channing Cope as Henry Watterson, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, and Ollie Reeves as Evan P. Howell, of The Atlanta Constitution. A musical program by Mrs. H. N. Sullivan and Mrs.

R. G. Sawyer will complete the program.

"I Can Tell You About Patterson's From Actual Experience"

SAID a prominent Atlanta man recently: "In my time I have attended numerous funeral services, at various establishments both here and elsewhere. For this reason I was all the more amazed to observe how things are done at Spring Hill.

"It is not too much to say that a funeral service takes on an entirely new meaning and character when it is conducted at Patterson's. Instead of being a rather distressing formality, it actually becomes a beautiful and deeply comforting experience.

"I think the reason for this lies not only in the charm of the mortuary itself, but especially in the way that every member of the staff comes forward to do his or her part from the first moment a family calls."

A most interesting story about Spring Hill is told in the booklet, "A MEMORY PICTURE," which will be mailed to anyone on request.

My husband introduced me to Luckies

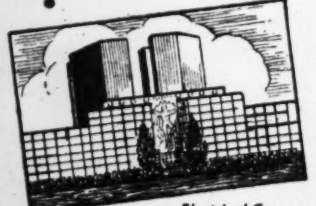

He had no objection to my brand of cigarettes. But, one day he asked me to try his. Well, I did—and I've been saying "Luckies Please" ever since. And it's not merely because Luckies taste fine and are ever so mild. Let me tell you the real reason.

My cigarette is a personal, intimate thing with me. After all, it touches my lips—and I do take pride in my sense of daintiness. Naturally, "Toasting" means to me even more than it does to a man—for purity is something very precious to a fastidious woman.

Editorial Department Heart
Of Paper, Publishers ToldLord Northcliffe's Theory
That Business Office
Must Not Dominate
Cited at Chattanooga Meeting.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 26. (AP)—The doctrine of Lord Northcliffe that "the newspaper is made by the editorial end," was discussed before the convention of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association today by Tom Wallace, editor of the Louisville Times.

It was Northcliffe's theory, he said, that "the editorial department must not be subordinate to the business office, because upon the quality of the various departments which we group under the general heading 'editorial' must depend the reader interest which gives value to advertising space and creates the opportunity of the circulation department."

"In other words," Mr. Wallace continued, "Lord Northcliffe regarded the editorial end as really the business end," and believed that it was the duty of editors to make a newspaper that would sell on its merits. He pointed to Northcliffe's outstanding success as a publisher.

Says Page Valuable.

The Louisville editor, who is chairman of the association's editorial affairs committee, described the editorial page as a "valuable part of a newspaper," but said it must be kept free of outside interference.

"Provided the editorial page is written competently—and that does not mean brilliantly—only one thing can destroy reader interest in it," Mr. Wallace said. "That is the interference of other objects than those of good journalism."

"If the editorial page is permitted to function naturally, it will be read widely and regularly, if only $5,000 a year is spent upon it. If it is used as an alibi, if it becomes the means by which political or business ends are served, it will be worthless if $50,000 is spent upon it."

Recovery Act Discussed. Committee reports and "shop talk" occupied publishers throughout the day's session. Some aspects of the industrial recovery act as it relates to newspapers were discussed, but no formal action was taken.

The report of the Lee School of Journalism committee included a statement by Professor William L. Mapel, director of the school, setting out a change in the curriculum so as to "require in place of advanced technical courses an equivalent amount of student time spent in studies in the background field."

The revised curriculum limits instruction in newspaper technique to a minimum and places emphasis instead of background training in history, economics, political science, language and literature.

Cranston Williams, secretary-manager of the association, said that a survey made by the S. N. P. A. which is soon to be published shows that "about 90 per cent plus of southern newspapers have no particular place for journalism students and would rather have a man coming from college with a literary degree than a man who specialized in journalism."

Choose Officers Today.

James G. Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville Banner and president of the association, submitted his report, showing a year of what he termed "hectic" activity. New officers will be chosen tomorrow.

The following committees were appointed by President Stahlman: Nominations: J. S. Parks, Fort Smith (Ark.), Times Record; W. C. Johnson, Chattanooga News; V. H. Hanson, Birmingham News and Age-Herald; C. B. Johnson, Charlotte Observer; and Clark Howell Jr., Atlanta Constitution.

Resolutions: E. K. Gaylord, Oklahoma City Oklahoman and Times; J. N. Heiskell, Arkansas Gazette; and George C. Willings, Pensacola News and Journal.

ALCOHOL TANK BLAZE

DOES $250,000 DAMAGE
NEW ORLEANS, June 26. (AP)—A two-day fire, started when lightning struck a million-gallon tank of denatured alcohol at the United States Industrial Alcohol Company plant at Westwego, was finally put out yesterday and the loss estimated unofficially at more than $250,000.

Soviet Strongly Protests
Landing of Jap Troops

MOSCOW, June 26. (AP)—G. I. Sokolnikov, vice commissar for foreign affairs, today protested vigorously against the alleged action of the Japanese torpedo boat Tatzkaza entering soviet waters and sending a landing party ashore to investigate the reported slaying of three Japanese fishermen.

The incident was alleged to have occurred in the region of Cape Kroutski, Kamchatka peninsula. The vice commissar declared the war vessel landed sailors despite the soviet government's refusal five days earlier to entertain the Japanese government's request that the Tatzkaza be allowed to proceed there with an incident actually occurred, although it has instructed Kamchatka authorities to make full inquiries and punish those responsible.

Congressman's Picnic
Ends in Free-for-All

PITTSBURGH, June 26. (AP)—A testimonial picnic for Representative Michael J. Muldowney broke up early today in a free-for-all fight which brought police cars racing to suburban Mt. Lebanon in an answer to a riot call. Nineteen persons were arrested and placed in jail overnight, most of them bruised and with their clothing torn. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

Police said the trouble started over an automobile accident in the picnic grove, one picnicker bumping into another's automobile while attempting to get his car onto the highway.

EMPLOYEE IS SOUGHT
AFTER BANK ROBBERY

ALBERTA, Va., June 26. (AP)—Brunswick county authorities today broadcast an appeal to police throughout the state to aid in the search for Julian C. Smith, assistant cashier of the Bank of Alberta, which was discovered this morning to have been rifled of approximately $10,000 in cash.

MRS. ANNA H. GILBERT
WILL BE BURIED TODAY

Mrs. Anna Hill Gilbert, 84, formerly of Union Point, died Monday at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. N. D. Sowerby, of 908 Plymouth road, N. E., following a long illness. Mrs. Sowerby is the wife of the Atlanta manager for Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc.

Mrs. Gilbert had resided here for the last several years. She was well known in Union Point. Surviving also are another daughter, Mrs. E. L. Jackson; and five sons, M. T. O. W., F. H. J. A. and R. T. Gilbert. Funeral services will be held at noon today (eastern time) at the Sharon Methodist church, and burial will be in the Sharon cemetery. Sons will act as pallbearers. H. M. Patterson & Son are in charge.

CHARLES W. LAWSHE,
PIONEER, SUCCEUMBS

Charles W. Lawshe, pioneer Atlantian, died last Wednesday at his residence on LaFrance street at the age of 71. He was formerly the promoter of Georgia Lithia water but had been retired for some time. Born in Rochester, Minn., in 1863, Mr. Lawshe came to Atlanta at an early age. He is survived by his wife, four daughters, Mrs. Frank B. Knapp, Mrs. W. R. Swards, Mrs. C. L. Grimm and Miss Lucile Lawshe; a son, F. W. Lawshe, all of Atlanta, and several brothers and sisters and grandchildren. Funeral services were held Thursday and interment was in Oakland cemetery.

DOUG DAVIS TO ENTER
AIR RACES AT CHICAGO

Doug Davis, widely known Atlanta flyer, will leave Thursday with Mrs. Davis in a special Travel Air biplane to enter the American air races opening in Chicago Monday. He will enter at least two races, in addition to putting on an exhibition of stunting. The pilot will fly a biplane which has a top speed of 135 miles an hour and will compete in the Governor Homer trophy race for ships with engine displacement of less than 800 cubic inches. He also will fly in the free-for-all race of licensed planes.

OFFICE FIXTURE FIRM
TO HIKE PAY AUGUST 1

After a meeting of the board of directors of J. P. Womack & Son, Monday, J. P. Womack, president of the company, announced that beginning August 1, the salaries of all employees would be raised 20 per cent. The firm, which manufactures furniture and office fixtures, employs from 65 to 75 men and has employed as many as 100. Mr. Womack said that while he would like to raise all salaries immediately, contracts entered into under the present wage scale would prevent his company from doing so until August 1.

Visit St. Louis

THE CITY OF A THOUSAND SIGHTS

This year, enjoy every minute of your vacation. See the things you've always wanted to see . . .

The famous Municipal Theatre in St. Louis, where each night, — June to August 27—thousands of happy men and women gather 'neath star-studded skies, to enjoy the latest and most popular musical show . . . elaborately staged by a cast of 125 people, with stars of national reputation in leading roles.

The magnificent Lindbergh Trophies that lie in majestic splendor at the Jefferson Memorial in Forest Park—and, just a short distance away, one of the finest Art Museums in all the world.

One day, wander thru the bewitching Shaw's Gardens, where beautiful plants and flowers from all parts of the world blossom forth . . . and the next, lounge in cool comfort as a majestic steamer transports you along the broad bosom of the mighty Mississippi.

Watch two fine major league baseball teams in action . . . see the world-famous St. Louis Zoo, where more than 1900 specimens of wild animal life from all corners of the globe are assembled for your enjoyment. Step into a car downtown and, in less than an hour, look down on the Gateway City to the Southwest from one of the splendid planes that take off every little while from Lambert-St. Louis Municipal Airport.

Visit St. Louis—for a few days at least. On your way to the Century of Progress at Chicago, stop over here on your way up and again on your way back. The outlay will be small . . . the reward—in pleasure, in inspiration, in genuine enjoyment—will be out of all proportion to the cost.

MERCHANTS—Every week is buyer's week in St. Louis. You do not have to wait for buying seasons. St. Louis manufacturers and wholesalers know your market through many years of close contact with it . . . and the stocks of St. Louis wholesale houses and factories meet the needs of that market. Buying here is both pleasant and profitable. And, when business is done, St. Louis—"the City of a Thousand Sightings"—is waiting to contribute to your pleasure.

FREE—We have prepared an interesting pamphlet, "St. Louis, The City of a Thousand Sightings," which tells what to do in St. Louis—what to see, where to go, how to get there—and a hundred and one other things you want to know. A copy will be mailed you on request. Write . . .

BOSTON WELCOMES ROTARY OF WORLD FOR ANNUAL MEET

BOSTON, June 26.—(P)—The 24th annual convention of Rotary International met here today in Mechanics building, one of New England's largest public buildings.

It was welcomed to Massachusetts by Governor B. Ely, heard Paul P. Harris, father of Rotary, declare that "the friendships of men of many countries have made me more than a millionaire," and then plunged into serious business sessions with President Clinton P. Anderson, of Albuquerque, N. M., who presented an account of his stewardship.

Rotarians from Newfoundland rubbed shoulders with delegates from far New Zealand; Japanese conversed with British; South Americans grasped hands with Scandinavians in various parts of the building.

Early figures showed more than 6,000 registrants, a larger number than at last year's meeting in Seattle, although still considerably under the record set in Chicago in 1930.

Five Fishermen's Dreams Come True

More than 1,000 perch and bream were on the string of these five fishermen when they returned to Atlanta Sunday from a two-day trip to the Swanee river in Okefenokee swamp. They regard the place as a right in the picture are: George Everitt, of the Everitt Hardware Co., Decatur; Grady Wilson, of John H. Harland Co., Albert Armstrong, of Southeastern Express Co., Leonard Davidson, of Fig 'n Whistle, and Grady Duffee, of Duffee-Freeman Furniture Co. They brought about 600 of the fish back to Atlanta and celebrated the big catch with a fish fry Monday night at Pig 'n Whistle on Ponce de Leon avenue, with Davidson as host. Those at the party included: Mr. and Mrs. Everitt, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Duffee and Roy Duffee, Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Combs and Miss Lois Combs, and Dr. and Mrs. Homer Allen.

University of Chicago Professor Arrested for Aiding Factory Pickets

CHICAGO, June 26.—(P)—Professor Robert Moore Lovett, of the University of Chicago, author and lecturer, spent an hour in a jail cell today because he espoused the cause of 1,500 garment factory workers striking for higher pay and a shorter working week.

The elderly professor, a member of the university faculty since 1903, was released under $25 bond on a disorderly conduct charge. A short time later it was announced the employers had offered to meet the workers' demands, at least in part.

The employees went on strike against wages that Professor Lovett said were as low as $3 a week for 52 hours of work. Most of the workers were women, many of them negroes.

Lovett said he went to the scene of the strike, the B. Sopkin & Sons' apron factory, on reports that "police were brutal to strikers who were exercising their constitutional rights by picketing the plant."

"On arriving at the factory," he recounted, "I found there were about 25 strikers and a fair-sized crowd of sympathizers. Suddenly the police began to push the crowds and order them to move on."

"I reminded the officers that the strikers had the mayor's permission to picket. I persisted in demanding their rights, and finally a police sergeant informed me I was under arrest."

Secretary Rudolph Freeman said Lovett had shouted to the crowd: "Don't pay any attention to the police; you have a right to picket."

Lovett denied it.

The employers' offer, made by Benjamin Sopkin, president of the plant, and submitted to the workers through Congressman Oscar De Priest, Aldermen W. L. Dawson and Robert Jackson, and Ida Carter, representative of the workers, provided:

A nine-hour day instead of 10, a five-hour Saturday, an increase of 15 per cent on wages of $6 a week and over, and an increase of 10 per cent on wages of less than $6 a week.

Lovett announced he would be in police court tomorrow to answer the disorderly conduct charge although doing so would necessitate his missing a university lecture. He provided $4 of his bond, the remaining $21 being supplied by Miss Jessie Binford, head of the Juvenile Protective Association. He gave his address as Hull-house, welfare center headed by Miss Jane Addams.

4 NURSES HONORED FOR SAVING LIFE OF ATLANTA YOUTH

Four young Nashville, Tenn., nurses, credited with saving the life of Beverly E. Clarke, widely known young Atlantan, were recently presented the first certificates of merit for life saving signed by President F. D. Roosevelt. They were Mrs. Elizabeth M. Sparkman, Mrs. Nell Jenkins, Miss Beatrice Harnish and Miss Mamie Oliver, all of whom are connected with the state highway department garage at Nashville.

Young Clarke, en route to the Georgia Tech-Vanderbilt football game last fall, was critically injured when the automobile in which he was riding with "Duke" McKee, Atlanta baseball player; Ned Mason, of Chandler, Ariz.; Ted senior, and William P. Holland, of the Holland Furnace Company, of Atlanta, collided with another car near Murfreesboro, Tenn. None but Clarke was seriously injured. The four young women passing by shortly after the wreck rendered aid which is said to have saved Clarke's life. Clarke was paralyzed on the right side for some time, but has recovered. He is now spending the summer near Murfreesboro.

VETS' REVIEW BOARDS EXPECTED BY JULY 10

Hines Asks Aid of State Organizations in Naming Boards.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(P)—The veterans' administration hopes to have the veterans' boards of review set up by July 10 and will place upon the field managers the responsibility for pointing out to authorities any injustices or inequalities to veterans.

This was disclosed today in a letter from Frank T. Hines, the veterans' administrator, to senators. The letter said the reviewing boards would be of five members, three to be appointed by the president, and that one or more boards would be established for each of the 80 regional offices of the veterans' administration.

Senators, governors and boards of trade or chambers of commerce in each state have been asked by Hines to submit the names of four or five men for membership on the boards along with "a very brief account of the reasons why they are peculiarly fitted for the work."

LENZ AND PARTNER TAKE SMALL LEAD IN WHIST MEET

HANOVER, N. H., June 26.—(P)—The veteran internationalists Sidney S. Lenz and his partner, Winfield Liggett Jr., stole the spotlight today in the all-round championship by winning the contract session with 108 points in the twenty-fifth annual whist congress.

The team's advantage over Walter F. Wyman, of Boston, and Professor J. P. Richardson, of the Dartmouth Faculty, was 1-2 points.

With the completion of the contract session, the all-round championship, one of the major titles of the tournament, reached the one-third mark.

P. Hal Sims and Arthur Ryan, of Hartford, Conn., nosed out the veteran Sir Derrick Werner and F. C. Thwaites, of Boston, by a half point for fourth place. A Hartford (Conn.) combination of Sam O'Donnell and James O'Connor, who have played consistent bridge during the tournament, was in third with 90 points.

Tomorrow the major United States titles in whist will start with a full field. The Hamilton trophy for duplicate whist teams of four will be the first object of the contest. Then competition for the Cannon, associated members, Minneapolis, New Amsterdam, Congress and Manhattan trophies will follow on successive days.

Addressing the banquet of the Advertising Federation of America, the Roosevelt campaign manager said that "too often in the past have these special groups been able to whittle out of our public officials special consideration that was to the disadvantage of all of us."

The Roosevelt administration, Farley declared, "is basing its activity firmly upon the principle that what is good for all of the people is good for every class and that special consideration for particular groups cannot fail, in the end, to be injurious not only to the mass of the people but to the special groups themselves."

MARY SHOLES BRYAN WEDS GOTHAM LAWYER FREDERICKSBURG, Va., June 26.—(P)—Miss Mary Sholes Bryan, daughter of Mrs. Helen Berger Bryan, of Fredericksburg, and William Jennings Bryan Jr., of Los Angeles, Cal., was married this morning to Alfred Smith Forsyth, of St. Davids, Pa., and New York city.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dudley Boaght, rector of St. George's Episcopal church, on the lawn of Belvedere-on-the-Rappahannock, home of the bride's maternal grandfather, Alexander Berger, near here.

The bridegroom is a practicing attorney in New York, where the couple will live after a honeymoon to Canada. Mrs. Forsyth is a granddaughter of the late William Jennings Bryan.

GORE URGES TRADE WITH PUERTO RICO JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 26.—(P)—Closer co-operation and understanding between Puerto Rico and Florida in an effort to expand commerce and effect a "satisfactory disposition of our mutual problems" was urged in an address here today by Robert H. Gore, newly appointed governor of the West Indian insular possession.

Mr. Gore, newspaper publisher of Florida and Chicago, who recently was named to the Puerto Rico post by President Roosevelt, spoke at a luncheon sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and attended by a number of prominent Floridians.

Florida Killed. Ocala, Fla., June 26.—(P)—J. C. Weatherbee, wagon works employee, was found dead near his home today with a shot gun wound in his chest and the weapon leaning on a fence nearby. Authorities believe he was accidentally shot when he attempted to pull the gun through the fence after him.

A WISE CHURCH LEADER.

The formal statement by the Rt.
Rev. Thomas F. Gallor, Episcopal bishop of Tennessee and former head of the Episcopal Church in America, in which he puts himself on record as favoring repeal of the eighteenth amendment, is a tribute to this eminent church leader's breadth of vision and willingness to face and acknowledge indisputable facts.Bishop Gallor points out that the amendment was adopted without a full expression on the part of the people; that it has encouraged lawlessness; that it has left the decision as to prohibition up to the individual states, in keeping with the principle of states' rights, and that such action will not abrogate any state law controlling the liquor traffic.The soundness of the reasons given by Bishop Gallor for his courageous stand is not to be discounted. His church, like all others, believes in and teaches the benefits of temperance, but it has been more open-minded and willing to face the facts in the matter of prohibition than any other.In urging the repeal of the present laws, Bishop Gallor does not depart from his earnest advocacy of temperance. On the contrary, he points to the step which must first be taken before a successful effort towards national temperance can be undertaken.

AIMEE ERUPTS AGAIN.

Again the auburn-haired and much-publicized leader of the Angelus Temple congregation is in the headlines with her oft-repeated cry of "hoax"—but this time she admits it.Few American leaders of public groups have been as continuously, and generally as unenviably, in the public prints during the past decade
as Aimee Semple MacPherson.
Hutton.She first attained the front pages of the country with the remarkable story of the Mexican kidnaping. Then came the revelation of the cottage on the beach at Carmel, followed by a year or so of acrimonious exchanges with her mother, also a leader in the Angelus Temple work, and then the marriage with the rotund Hutton.Now comes the frank admission from this stormy petrel of evangelism that she sent, from her sick bed in Paris, a "hoax" cable announcing the birth of a son.Husband Hutton is in receipt of another cable, summoning him to Aimee's bedside, but knows not whether it, too, is a "hoax." Also he has reports that he may soon be faced with a divorce suit, to be filed in Paris.It's all very mystifying—but no more so than all that has gone before. The wonder of it is that the Angelus Temple "flock" still seem, sheeplike, perfectly willing to follow a shepherdess whose path lies so often along the lane of sensational publicity.

THE PRICE OF WAR.

The huge price that the United States is paying for its part in the World War is shown in the estimate of the treasury department that at the end of the present fiscal year the public debt will total the staggering sum of $21,000,000,000.When this country entered the World War its indebtedness was only $1,280,000,000. Thus the direct expenses incurred by our participation in the war, the subsequent expenses, such as pensions, directly attributable to the war, and the huge increase in all governmental expenditures which are indirectly chargeable to the influence of the war, have cost this country an increase of nearly $20,000,000,000 in its public debts.The annual interest now on the government's outstanding obligations is almost as large as the entire debt in 1917.The country was almost only a few years before the war at the reckless expenditure of what was dubbed the "billion-dollar congress." Now, even in peace times, congress must appropriate $4,000,000,000 or more to run the government and make payments on its huge debt.Which means that the war, 15 years after it came to an end, is still costing the people of the United States the stupendous price of more than $2,000,000,000 a year.Mr. Roosevelt says he doesn't expect a hit every time he goes to bat. Never mind; nobody cares so long as you sock it.What puzzles us is how a sales tax is going to ruin the poor who pay it while ruining the merchant who pays it.Things even up. Ignorance causes one man's fear, but it causes another's courage.But never yet has a crime flourished where the punishment was puffing whipping.THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Preparation
Then and Now.When we were little boys in Flanders our grandfather used to raise horses on his farm. One day a year, that day just happened to fall in the middle of the summer holidays, the horses were taken to a not very distant town by the men who had looked after them from the day they were born. Two days before we all set out, our knapsacks loaded with cakes and meat and fruit, for the fair. At night we slept in a hostelry overlooking the market place. All night through we could hear the buzz and zooming of the square, the neighing and scraping of horses and the songs of drunken peasants. We had a great time. On the day of the horse-market we boys were pressed into service.
For the buyers, were either French or German officers, sometimes Englishmen. That was a good way to try out your French or your German.
English was out of the question. Nobody had ever been able to get his tongue around English words. I suspect that even the professors were baffled by it, for the language simply wasn't taught.Anyway, the horses were sold. The eldest farm-hand, a giant with blue eyes, who was the same oaken proportion as grandfather, raised the money home and delivered it promptly to the old man. He would say such and such a horse fetched so much, that roan mare, those two boys brought a good price. Grandfather would nod. "Who bought them, Germans?" When he got an affirmative answer, he would say:
"I won't be long now before there is a war."He wasn't wrong, either. He had it hoped out almost to the month.
"Fourteen, maybe thirteen, they will start the dance," he used to say. And the peasants agreed with him.They are not selling many horses now in Europe, because horses are of little use in the last war, but Poland bought 60 tanks this year from England. Hungary is taking in ships from Italy. France has all her munitions factories working for herself and allies. When you look out of train windows these days, anywhere in Europe, you are bound to see troops on the move. They are preparing or followed or flanked by armored cars and all kinds of incomprehensible, weird-looking instruments such as airplane detectors—did you ever see such a contraption?Peasants shake their heads when they see all that business. If grandfather were alive he would be doing out when the dance is to start now.The Crabbed Fist.The late Marquis of Londonderry, who Lord Craigavon has been recalling, once addressed a letter to Lord Carson at "Belfast, Ireland," in such illegible script that the postal authorities sent it to "Bongal, India."
The only noble lord whose handwriting led to confusion. During a debate in the lords in 1867 the clerk intimated that an amendment had been handed in in writing, of which he was so illegible that he could not tell what it was about or from whom it came. It was then discovered that the author was Lord Lytton, and the amendment was proposed to disfranchise all persons who were unable to write.

FAILS IN ATTEMPT

Lindley Camp but it was presumed that the government would not grant a satisfactory service in the event that agreement is broken.The governor said he had received no word from Commissioner Wilcox regarding the results of his trip to Washington.

Barnett to Fight Effort.

Meanwhile, Captain J. W. Barnett, chief of the highway department, denied that he would not make a fight to prevent the Wilcox regime, which is operating under protection of martial law, from getting control of the expenditure of the $10,000,000."I am going to make representations to the federal authorities that the federal funds should be expended through the highway department and not through the Wilcox regime," Barnett said.Under the provisions of the act making the highway grants, a road department which has a legal and functioning highway department before the grants may be passed on to the state.

Jury Action Sought.

John J. Kelley, attorney for Sidney Wooten, the deputy sheriff who is suing Governor Barnett and Admiral General Lindley Camp, for $25,000 for arresting him when he attempted to serve court papers on the governor, announced that today he will seek a writ of habeas corpus from the grand jury concerning the matter.He said that officers when obstructed in the performance of their duty must make a written report to the grand jury. Wooten was so obstructed, he says, as was Charlie Poole and Pete Smith, two other deputies who were arrested when they attempted to serve Wooten's suit on the governor. Kelley said that both the governor and General Camp will be named as obstructing the officer and that if this be found by the jury to be true, both will be open to indictment for a misdemeanor.

The Dogs May Fight One Another, But They Join Forces When a Wolf Appears

By Robert Quillen

The world-wide war between classes, dreamed of by Russia's leaders, will remain an impossibility until human nature is changed.

The obstacle is race prejudice.

It is the fashion now to regard race prejudice as an evil, but it is not. It is natural, and all natural things are fundamentally good.All progress is the work of groups. Individual geniuses point the way to better things, but the united effort of many men is required to achieve reforms and improvements.Because that is true, nature made man a herd animal and prompted him to cooperate with his fellows—as bees and beavers do.When men were few, common interest bound them together in a tribe with a single chieftain at their head. And whether they lived as a mountain clan or dwelt in walled cities on the plain or spread over a continent and became a great nation, the tribal instinct remained the strongest of motives and the most beneficial to the race.

That instinctive clanishness is now called race consciousness.

Being divided into race conscious groups, men inevitably make comparisons flattering to their own clan and struggle endlessly to demonstrate its superiority.This competitive spirit has done more than any other single influence to advance civilization.Where there is race consciousness and race comparison and race competition, there inevitably will be race prejudice. And this race prejudice cannot be evil in itself, for it is natural and its effect is good.To say that its effects can be evil is merely to say that any good thing can become an evil if it is carried to extremes and denied the saving benefit of reason.Race prejudice, being instinctive and natural, is stronger than class prejudice, which is artificial. No motive developed by artificial conditions can outweigh a motive that is bred in the bone of the race.The ability of race prejudice to overcome all others was established beyond question during the great war. Class groups and political groups and religious groups pledged to peace and universal brotherhood laid aside their principles for the duration of the war and fought tooth and nail for their respective clans.Class may fight against class within a nation, as relatives fight one another, but all classes join forces against the hated foreigner.Don't condemn race consciousness as the greatest safeguard against that ugly imperialism called class consciousness.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

(Copyright, 1933, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 26.—So Darryl Zanuck tells us why he thinks Loretta Young will become a star. He has just signed her to a long-term contract, so he should have a pretty good idea.Zanuck ranks the qualities necessary for film stardom in dollars and cents this way:
Beauty—$8 per day.
Brains—$10 per day.
Beauty plus brains—$10,000 the day.
And these figures are an average rate, he says."The most beautiful actress in the world isn't worth more than $50 a day," he says, "and she isn't worth more than $100 a day if she isn't also a brain." Zanuck's genius producer."We have them by the hundreds in the dance choruses of our musicals, and they are as gorgeous as any girls to be found anywhere in the world. And these few are bound to emerge from the chorus to stardom as in the case of Joan Crawford.""But you cannot earn your own weight in dollars per week with beauty alone in Hollywood," Helen Hayes chimed to the heightsby brains. Aline McMahon is another woman whose place in the cinema is alone due to brain and talent.Marie Dressler is a case of brains over beauty. She was a favorite in musical comedy in her younger days.
But it was not until the late 20's that she was recognized as a star.
Musical comedy to comedy drama she became the movie favorite she is today—the Marie Dressler who is box office and the actress whom everybody adores.As a beauty-and-brains star Zanuck indicates Constance Bennett as a shining example. "Beauty plus brains," Zanuck, "is beauty plus brains. And
L. Bennett he tells us, has it plenty.
And the producer thinks Loretta Young has the same thing. And that is why he has picked her out of Hollywood for a long-term contract and is planning to star her later.""She is young—is still maturing—and she has come into the full swing of the chorus line. She will be one of the truly glamorous women of Hollywood. Star-material of a high order."So there you are in the beauty-and-brains subject as decided in this charming gossamer town.More Rain Is Forecast

DEMOCRATIC RECORD LAUDED BY ROBINSON

Arkansas Says Administration Has Fulfilled Pledges.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP)—Praising the administration for an "incomparable record" in fulfilling campaign promises, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, said today all the party's platform pledges either have been kept or "advanced to a stage which promises early ultimate results."

In a statement reviewing the record of the administration and congress, the Arkansas senator said there were signs of "a decided improvement in business."

Robinson listed the party's campaign pledges, one by one, with a statement of the action taken on each.

Heading the list was the pledge to cut governmental expenditures 25 per cent, which he said had been accomplished by effecting annual savings of "about a billion dollars." This also fulfilled the promise to balance the budget, he asserted.

Robinson said congress "made a record unparalleled for speed and effective action," and that he knew "of no other instance of equal cooperation by a legislative body with the executive."

Among the pledges he claimed had been fulfilled were farm relief, federal aid to the unemployed, speeding employment, development of water power, protection of the investing public and a firm foreign policy.

How To Make Your Baby Comfortable At Teething Time

The inflammation and fever at teething time upsets baby's bowels and intestines, adding to its discomfort. This condition can be easily, quickly and safely corrected with Teethingina, which not only thoroughly evacuates baby's intestines, but purifies and sweetens the bowels; prevents food fermentation and stops decomposition of fecal matter in the entire intestinal tract. Teethingina has no opiate; try it for your baby and get it from any drug store for only 20c.—(adv.)

Rundown in Health

Means Rundown in Blood! Blood is life. Blood is everything. When blood gets thin or poor you feel it in a dozen different ways. Appetite fails, strength ebbs and you become weak and depressed.

To build up your blood, take Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. It contains iron which makes for rich, red blood. It also contains tasteless quinine which tends to purify the blood. Thus you get two effects of great value in any rundown condition. Taken regularly for a few days, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic will soon have you back on your feet. It will improve your appetite, increase your strength and vitality and put color in your cheeks. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been a source of strength and energy for young and old. It is pleasant to take and contains nothing harmful. Get a bottle today and enjoy real health. Sold by all stores.—(adv.)

Little Stories From Real Life

"If I save $10.00 per week, how much will that be, with interest, at the end of five years?"

The speaker was a bright-eyed chap, addressing the cashier in our Savings Department.

The cashier figured it out—the first $10.00 was deposited. Regularly every week he came—the weeks and years went on.

In his own organization, the young man grew in position and experience. Came the day when his employer was ready to retire.

Ten dollars a week bought the business—the ten dollars which that young man deposited regularly through the years.

Yes—saving money is hard—but it can be done by the man or woman who has the will to get ahead.

There is no substitute for saving.

Jack Takes a Jab at Jinkys

"I've heard a lot about Jinkys since I arrived in Atlanta," said Jack Dempsey, idol of millions of fight fans, "and I sure would like to see what they are all about."

No sooner said than done, and the Jinky editor had some of last week's prize winners in Jack's room at the Ansley hotel. "Gee it sure is wonderful, what can be done with a pair of scissors," said Jack, "I wish I was going to be here a while, so I could win some of the prizes."

Jinky Editor Prepares for Rush Of Entrants Early Wednesday

By THE JINKY EDITOR.
Tomorrow will be Jinky day again and I hardly know whether to look forward to it happily or with fear and trepidation. I'm going to have several extra helpers counting Jinky receipts, as the interest that has been displayed since the leading candidates for the two free trips to Chicago has been announced is so great I expect a half-million Jinky receipts to be entered. There were 325,000 last week and all indications show that almost double that number will come in this week. I don't have to count sheep to put me to sleep since the Jinky contest started.

I have asked several of the contestants who had entered large numbers of Jinkys where they got so many. The answer was almost the same from each. They are having their friends save them. They see that their friends have their bills paid on time, and often before they are due. All are sending their friends and relatives to shop at the official Jinky stores, with the result that some person will go to Chicago this summer without having any expense attached. Wonderful? Ask those who Jinky.

Tomorrow is the day on which you get 250 Jinky receipts free by entering at least one Jinky from each of the official Jinky stores. These Jinkys must each be accompanied by ten Jinky receipts. So many contestants were thoughtful enough to remember to pin their Jinky receipts together that I hate to bring it up again. However, with the enormous number of receipts that will be entered this week it is still more important that counting and sorting be facilitated. In separating your receipts bind them with a clip or rubber band and that will make them easy to handle as well as speed up the counting. If you have entered before and have a card be sure to write your number on each of your Jinkys before you enter them.

In a day or so I will announce the surprise which will help you to win more prizes and increase your entries for the free trips to Chicago. Watch The Constitution for the news.

Jinky Headquarters will be opened from 8 a. m. until 6:30 p. m. on Jinky day.

SECRETARY SEEKS AID IN PUBLIC WORKS

Secretary Anxious to Get Administrations Set Up as Quickly as Possible.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP)—Anxious to get state public works administrations set up as quickly as possible to start $3,200,000,000 of federal construction funds to work, Secretary Ickes has asked aid of governors, members of congress and state chambers of commerce in selecting state administrators.

In a confidential letter received by virtually all senators and some representatives, Ickes plan as chairman of the public works board in charge of program was disclosed today.

The letter said governors, senators and state chambers of commerce were being asked to submit the names of possible state administrators by Thursday for consideration, with a stipulation that political factors must be avoided.

Meanwhile, the public works administration received from the Reconstruction Corporation a list of projects with an unofficial estimated cost aggregating $100,000,000 that the corporation could not handle because of its stringent self-liquidating requirements.

The list was asked of the corporation by Donald H. Sawyer, temporary administrator of public works, so that the investigations made by the corporation of the proposed projects might be utilized by the public works administration as the public works law is more liberal than that under which the Reconstruction Corporation functions.

It was considered likely that from among the approximately 100 projects understood to be on the list, which public work officials would not disclose, would come probably the first of the non-federal construction programs to be authorized by the public works law.

No new application will be considered by the administration for state, county or local or other non-federal projects unless they are submitted through the state administrations yet to be set up.

Ickes hoped to have ready for President Roosevelt on the latter's return a list of nominees for state administrators and expected that on their appointment work would go forward rapidly.

Several legal questions are yet to be decided by the public works board. Among them is the question of whether a state, county or political subdivision should be permitted to borrow 70 per cent of the cost of a project in order to be given the other 30 per cent by the government.

Senators who were members of the finance committee which handled the public works-industrial recovery bill expressed the opinion that it was not the intention of the bill to permit this course but that the law's provision for the government to give 30 per cent of the cost of materials and labor on a project was intended as a sort of bonus to agencies that could supply 70 per cent themselves.

Austrians to Watch Propaganda Planes

VIENNA, June 26.—(AP)—Austria's military fliers are ready to take the air against German propaganda planes, Karl Vaugoin, minister of war, told a gathering of Catholic youth at Linz today.

Referring to a mystery plane which scattered leaflets over Linz last week warning that a "new fight" will be made against the government of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss by the recently outlawed Nazi party, the war minister declared:

"I have stationed military fliers at the Vienna, Innsbruck, Salzburg and Linz airports so that we will be able to take a closer look at such airplanes in the future."

"Fortunately, even the slenderness of our army budget has not prevented our maintaining a flying corps."

2 DIE IN ACCIDENTS NEAR ANDERSON

ANDERSON, S. C., June 26.—(AP)—Two persons were killed and four injured in two accidents near here today.

W. Jones Greer, 48, dairyman, was instantly killed when his automobile was struck by a Blue Ridge train on the outskirts of Anderson. Two other occupants of the machine were injured.

Benny Reynolds, Atlantic City, N. J., negro was killed and two other negroes injured when their car hit the Alford bridge and plunged into the Savannah river.

TWO SUSPECTS HELD IN MIAMI ROBBERIES

MIAMI, Fla., June 26.—(AP)—Two youths identified by police as Levine Jernigan, 22, and his cousin, Troy Jernigan, 18, were arrested today as suspects in a holdup where here that has numbered 25 victims.

Two women companions of the youths also were arrested. Their names as Kathleen Jernigan, 18, and Elizabeth Henderson, 26.

RAINEY TO ASK F. D. R. TO RECOGNIZE SOVIET

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP)—Speaker Rainey said today he would urge President Roosevelt to give immediate consideration to the question of recognizing Soviet Russia.

The speaker said he felt the United States could well afford to recognize Russia "not only for the trade but for that country's friendship."

Man Given Sentence, But in His Own Home

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 26.—(AP)—A sentence of 26 days in his own home was imposed today upon Herman Kronson, 54, for contempt of court.

In imposing the unusual sentence, Superior Court Judge Antonio A. Capotosto said he decided to sentence the defendant to his home instead of jail on learning an invalid wife and sister were dependent upon him and a jail sentence might mean their deaths.

Kronson was found guilty of contempt last week in approaching a litigant in a will case and saying, probably he could "do him some good" as he knew one of the jurors.

The judge said his investigation showed Mrs. Kronson to be an invalid suffering from pernicious anemia and that Kronson's sister is a mental case.

"This court is human," said the judge, "and I do not believe the people of this state require the methods of this institution. The occurrence I hope will be a warning to the world at large. I am not going to send this man to jail. I cannot jeopardize the lives of two individuals."

U. S., SWITZERLAND FEEL GERMANY ABLE TO PAY

LONDON, June 26.—(AP)—American and Swiss long-term creditors of Germany were understood to have insisted at a discussion today that the reich is capable of paying interest on long-term debts.

The Americans and the Swiss, who hold a large slice of Germany's debts, were said to feel that the fall of the dollar has lightened Germany's burden sufficiently to make the transfer moratorium Germany is seeking unnecessary.

WILEY AND ROSENDAHL GIVEN BERTHS AT SEA

SAN PEDRO, Calif., June 26.—(AP)—A brace of hardy navy men, who "walked away" from two of the most spectacular dirigible catastrophes in the history of lighter-than-air craft, return to sea duty today.

Lieutenant Commanders Herbert V. Wiley and Charles E. Rosendahl lived through the crashes of the Shenandoah and Akron to echo that saying in the flying corps: "If you can walk away from a washout, you're o. k."

Lieutenant Commander Wiley, only officer survivor of the Akron disaster off the New Jersey coast April 4, will be navigator of the light cruiser, Cincinnati. Lieutenant Commander Rosendahl, only officer and dirigible pilot survivor of the Shenandoah crash over Ohio in 1925, will be assistant first lieutenant and damage control officer of the battleship West Virginia.

Arkansas Girls Ride With 'Pretty Boy' Floyd

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., June 26.—(AP)—Six young girls returning from a swim near Winslow yesterday accepted a ride from a motorist.

Entering the car they found it equipped with machine guns and other firearms.

The man, whom they described as young and good-looking, told them he was Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, Oklahoma outlaw.

They were doubtful of his identity but left the car at the first opportunity.

OIL PRICE SETTING BY F. D. R. IS ASKED

Recovery Act Code Provides for Competition Strictly "By the Book."

CHICAGO, June 26.—(AP)—A new system for the gasoline and oil business, with the president of the United States setting price limits and dealers competing "by the book," was offered to oil refiners and jobbers today as the work of 60 marketing association delegates who met here to draft a recovery act code.

With it went a request they were expected to endorse or reject. It asked federal licenses for the entire oil industry, producers, refiners, jobbers and shippers.

The code conference found independent oil dealers and representatives of big companies in sharp dispute over one of the 34 proposed new rules. As to how far the big companies shall be allowed to go in control of filling station outlets, the code contains alternative sections.

That written by small dealers forbids refiners from tying station owners up to handle their products exclusively, unless the refiners owned the stations or had long-term leases.

The other rule allowed refiners to lease stations for any period, or to make station men their agents.

The president of the United States was requested to set maximum and minimum prices for petroleum products, and the code outlined in detail how the business would be conducted. Wholesalers and jobbers must not furnish equipment to filling stations. Equipment would be transferred from one company to another at blue book prices, and there was uniform schedule for credit.

Wholesalers and retailers must post their prices, and let them stand for 24 hours. All price concessions were outlawed.

Selling below cost was forbidden and "prudent management" basis was established for prices so as to allow a "reasonable profit." Advertising that you undersell competitors was declared to be unfair.

Senator Borah Rallies Following Operation

BALTIMORE, June 26.—(AP)—The fiery senator from Idaho, William E. Borah, underwent an operation for the removal of the prostate gland at the Johns Hopkins hospital here today and was reported to be recovering nicely.

"You couldn't ask for a more successful case," said an aide to Dr. Hugh H. Young, the noted urologist, who performed the operation. "It is like a text-book case."

Mrs. Borah, wife of the senator, who was in the hospital during the operation, said her husband had been "resting quite comfortably."

At Dr. Young's office, it was said the senator probably will have to remain in the hospital for two and a half or three weeks.

Billy Burke's Great Putting Saves America From Rout

BRITONS LEAD ON FIRST DAY OF CUP BATTLE

America's Big Guns Fail and Trail by 2 1-2 to 11-2 Score.

By Frank H. King.

SOUTHPORT, England, June 26.—(AP)—Thanks largely to the heroic putting of a player who was almost left off the team—Bill Burke, one-time Connecticut iron-worker—the United States averted a rout today at the hands of British professional golfers in the foursomes of the Ryder cup competition.

As a result of their fighting first the Americans captured one of the four two-ball or "Scotch" foursomes, halved another and lost two, instead of going down to defeat in all of them, as seemed entirely possible after a disastrous morning round for the invaders.

THE RESULTS.

Here are the final results:
Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen, United States, all square with Charles Whitcombe and Percy Allis.

Albie Mitchell and Arthur Havers, Great Britain, defeated Olin Dutra and Deshaune Shute, 3 and 2.
Syd Easterbrook and W. H. Davis, Great Britain, defeated Paul Runyan and Craig Wood, 1 up, 36 holes.

Bill Burke and Ed Dudley, United States, defeated Alfred H. Padgham and Alf Perry, 1 up, 36 holes.
The score thus stands, Great Britain 2 1-2 points, United States 1 1-2 points, with eight 36-hole singles matches to be played tomorrow, concluding the fifth Ryder cup series. An even break will give the British possession of the cup and a 3-3 edge in the competition.

Burke, who was an eleventh-hour selection for the American team after being omitted from the list of nine originally picked, combined with Dudley, the tall pro from Concordville, Pa., to produce the most spectacular golf and most exciting reversal of today's foursomes.

BURKE, DUDLEY RALLY.
Rallying after being 4 down in the first round, Dudley's steady iron play and Burke's magnificent work on the greens enabled the Americans to square the match at the 24th, where Bill negotiated a stymie with his niblick, and came from behind again to win two of the last three holes for a victory by 1 up, over the youthful Britons, Padgham and Perry.

Burke and Dudley shot the afternoon round in 68, four under par, and 12 strokes under their morning score.

Scarcely less sensational was the comeback of the American captain, Hagen, and Sarazen, the holder of the British open title. They were 3 down at lunch, and 4 down at the 26th but took advantage of faltering opposition to finish all square on the 36th with the No. 1 British pair. Two missed putts, one of only 18 inches by Whitcombe on the 29th hole and another by Allis on the 36th proved costly to the Britons, who were forced to split the point for this match after apparently having it "swept up."

DING-DONG MATCH.
Wood and Runyan lost a ding-dong match, the third of the day, to be carried to the home green for decision, after a gallant fight. The young Americans were the only invaders to be as much as all even with the British, in the morning play, but were not quite able to match the steady par-shooting of Davies and Easterbrook in the afternoon. Davies' reliable wooden putter, in particular, proved a difficult weapon for Wood and Runyan to offset. The Americans, two down and two to go, won the 35th, but the best they could do was a half on the final green.

Mitchell and Havers unexpectedly proved the strongest of the British combinations, playing par as well as their American rivals, Dutra and Shute, to a standstill all day. The veteran homebreds were 4 up in the morning, when they posted 72, one under par. They were still 4 up with an outgoing 36, one more under par, in the afternoon, and then withstood an opposing spurt of brilliant play to close out the match on the 34th green. Shute and Dutra cut the British margin in half with two birdies in a row on the 29th and 30th.

Mitchell and Havers bagged "birds" of their own on the 30th and 43d to check the rally.

PRINCE ON HAND.
Tomorrow the Prince of Wales will be on hand to watch the singles competition, between 10,000 and 15,000 spectators followed today's matches. The playing situation developed by the foursomes is just the reverse of that four years ago, at Leeds, where the British forces came from behind to take a majority of the singles matches and win the cup. The British, fortified by a better start, were thus well satisfied to hold a one-point lead and pin their hopes upon the outcome of man-to-man competition tomorrow.

Bike Races Here Reviving Interest

The announcement that bicycle racing will be revived in Atlanta on July 4 has stirred up unusual interest, not only among the youngsters but also in the ranks of the staiders. There are still a lot of fellows who get a thrill out of recounting the feats of the famous Bobby Walthour on the track.

The fourth annual schedule of bicycle races at Lakewood includes preliminary races for the Western Union, Postal Telegraph, and another open race for all other amateur riders. The first three finishing in each preliminary will ride in the final for the top prize of a racing bicycle.

Entries for these races are being received at Walthour & Hood Company, 52 Forsyth street, S. W. All desiring to enter are requested to do so before Thursday, June 29, at 12 o'clock, which is the "dead line."

Dunn and Knowles To Meet Friday

Dynamite Dunn, the terrific light-heavy puncher of West Point, takes on real big-time opposition in Carl Knowles, of Savannah, in West Point Friday night. Dunn looks like a real contender and his mettle will be tested in this bout.

Knowles holds decisions over Harry Allen, Tex Wallace, Cyclone Smith, Wild Bill Cox and recently defeated Battling Bazo, of Birmingham, very decisively. Dunn has cleaned up everything in this section of the country, including Shonie Capeland, Ben Razzett, Rennie McDuffie, Red Baker by a knockout and several other good boys. A good set of preliminaries has been arranged in the new arena and a record crowd is expected. Popular prices will prevail.

Dempsey Pulls Watch On His Tour Partner

By Jimmy Jones.

It was around 10 o'clock Sunday evening when Jack Dempsey, resting in his tired frame on the veranda of one of Atlanta's hospitable suburban homes, pulled out his watch and informed his protegee for the time being, Max Baer, that it was just about his (Baer's) bedtime.

That young man, who was sprawling luxuriously in a big arm chair and talking at the rate of a mile a minute or faster, checked his flow of conversation long enough to catch the serious glint in the old champion's dark eyes. For once during that evening's round, he had not greeted Dempsey's efforts at advice with a wise crack or a knowing wink. He got up, stretched himself to the full length of his brawny and not unhandsome figure, and said simply, "You're right, Jack, let's go."

Baer's own seriousness and docility at the moment surprised the audience, which for the better part of an hour had been pleasantly entertained by the running fire of facetious comment which he had directed at the good-natured Dempsey. He had reviewed Dempsey's own fight career, his romances and his business adventures with all the daring naivete of youth. The old champion, too, apparently had enjoyed it although there were moments when he squirmed and flushed at one of Baer's particularly well-directed darts.

JUST BIG KID.
"Just a big kid on his first tour," Jack said smiling, as he bade his hostess and the other guests good night with his customary graciousness. And that's Baer all over. The only thing Jack omitted in his statement, however, was the fact that he and Baer are just a couple of big kids on tour and one might add, very likable kids. For Dempsey, after all that he has gone through, has retained all of his youth and personal charm. He makes an ideal pal for the boisterous Baer.

But when the time came to be firm, Dempsey did not hesitate to pull that watch. He could always be firm when the occasion demanded, the old Mauler. And Baer obeyed him as he would a father. Chances are, also, that Baer will take some of Dempsey's pointers on punches, although his smart reply to one of them was, "And by the way, Jack, tell 'em about that punch I showed you." Baer was referring to a blow he delivered in the old Mauler's solar plexus while training for Schmeling. It made Dempsey wince, but was great copy for the fight.

ENJOYABLE TOUR.
That round of the city with the two big fellows was one of genuine enjoyment. First there was the delightful dinner at the Standard Club Sunday evening at which Ralph Altmyer, the manager of the Ansley, was host. Uncle Wilbert Robinson was there and along with Dempsey, Baer, and Hoffman and Ralph Redmond, the southern amateur golf champion, Uncle Robby recalled the time in 1920 when he and Dempsey were introduced together at the Friars Club. Dempsey had just beaten Wilbur for the world's heavyweight championship and Uncle Robby's Brooklyn Dodgers had just won the National League pennant. Dempsey remembered it.

There was the rush of autograph at all stops. As usual, Dempsey complied with all requests along this line and to the time to shake hands with all the youngsters. Baker was equally accommodating. One gentleman, who had never seen Jack, was introduced.

"What's the name?" he queried, not getting it.

"J. Dempsey," Jack replied modestly.

LADIES' MAN.
Baer expressed a desire to see Atlanta, especially all of the Georgia "peaches" he had heard about down here. He is quite a ladies' man, that Max. And he was introduced to some of the city's fairest.

At all assemblages, Baer continued to indulge his keen delight in ribbing his manager, Ancil Hoffman, and Dempsey, Hoffman, a little, quiet, soft-spoken man, let him have his way. He knows the boy too well to do otherwise. Hoffman says Baer is the hardest puncher since Dempsey. He proved it by making a chopping block of Ernie Schaaf, Jose Santa, the giant Portuguese and then Max Schmeling. Hoffman says he had a hard time making Baer vicious again after his fight with Frankie Campbell on the coast. Campbell did as a result of the beating and it had a depressing effect on Baer. His boyish enthusiasm now is merely an outlet for his savagery in the ring. And Ancil accedes to it like a wise manager.

American League Team Is Selected

CHICAGO, June 26.—(UP)—The all-star American league team which will meet a picked team from the National league at Comiskey park July 6 was named today by President William Harridge.

The 18 players follow:
Pitchers: Red Sox, Bob Feller, Athletics, Vernon Gomez, Yankees, Wesley Ferrell and Earl Biddlehead, Indians and Alvin Crowder, Senators; Infielders: Lou Gehrig, Rogers, Tigers; Joe Cronin, Senators; Jimmy Fox, Athletics; and Jimmy Dykes, White Sox, outfielders; and Sam Rice, Yankees; Babe Ruth and Ben Chapman, Yankees; Dean West, Browns, and Earl Averill, Indians.
The Yankees placed six men on the team, twice as many as any other club. Cleveland came next with three representatives.

The American league team lineup and batting order will be named by Connie Mack, Athletics manager, picked to handle the all-stars.

Tarpley, Deadwyler Box at Lakewood

The battling soldier of Fort MePherson, Chick Tarpley and Henry Deadwyler, of East Point, tie up at Lakewood Friday night in the amateur league today notified. Pitcher Tarpley was scheduled to meet and Tarpley was forced to wait until this week due to an injured eye received in training.

This fight has reached a grudge pitch and is sure to be a battle. Bill Pope, popular little Lakewood brawler, takes on Carey Paul in the semi-final. There will be 13 other bouts full of action and a large crowd is expected this week, due to the splendid fights of last Friday evening.

Allen Suspended For Five Days

DETROIT, June 26.—(UP)—William Harridge, president of the American league, today notified pitcher Johnny Allen, of the New York Yankees, that he has been suspended for five days for shouldering Umpire George Hildebrand in the fifth inning of yesterday's first game with Detroit.

AMERICANS WIN IN FIRST ROUND AT WIMBLEDON

Vines, Sutter, Stoeffen, Burwell and Jones Survive Play.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 26.—(AP)—Paced by their long-legged champion, H. Ellsworth Vines Jr., the strong American delegation in the British tennis championships today moved through the first round of men's singles with ranks practically unbroken as two weeks of play began on the famous Wimbledon courts.

Vines, assigned to No. 1 court, defeated G. R. D. Meredith, 6-1, 6-2, 6-0, while his less famous co-patriots, Cliff Sutter and Lester Stoeffen scored.

SENATORS WIN EIGHTH IN ROW, INCREASE LEAD

Nats Take Indians, 4-3, to Run Margin to Two Games.

CLEVELAND, June 26.—(AP)—Joe Cronin's rampaging Washington Senators continued their triumphant march through the west today, turning in their third successive conquest of the Cleveland Indians. The score was 4 to 3.

The victory was the Senators' fifteenth triumph in their last 16 starts and their eighth in succession—a new high mark for the season in the American league. It also increased Washington's lead to two games.

Reese Is Victorious In First Round Play

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 26.—(AP)—vid Morgan, North Carolina, 6-3, 4-6, 8-6. Wilmer Hines, of the University of North Carolina, stroked his way into the second round of the national intercollegiate tennis championship tournament today with a 6-3, 7-5 victory over Kendall Cram, of Tulane.

Among the first matches of the tourney which started today at the Merion Cricket Club, the two southerners put on a thrilling battle, with Hines, seeded eighth, becoming the first-ranking star to advance.

Cram's teammate, Ed Sutter, brother of Cliff, who won the title last year, had easy going against Herman Block, Penn. State, winning, 6-0, 6-2. In another first-round encounter while John De K. Bowen, Virginia, defeated Edward Steele, Dickinson, 6-2, 6-3, in still another first-round encounter.

In other first-round matches, Leonard Hartman, Columbia, defeated Da-

Lon Warneke Iked, Storms Club House

CHICAGO, June 26.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs had better score a substantial number of runs the next time Lonnie Warneke pitches, or the club management may have to pay heavy property damage.

After losing a 2-to-1 decision to Boston Saturday, Warneke stormed into the clubhouse, seized a bat and destroyed a heating apparatus. The Braves' management billed the Cubs for $25.

When the young Arkansan, who last year led the National league in pitching accomplishments, finished with the heater, he ruined all his mates' straw hats.

Warneke, who lost only six games while winning 22 last year, already has lost seven this season, four of them in a row. His last five defeats have been by scores of 3 to 2, 2 to 1, 2 to 1, 2 to 0, and 2 to 1.

L. Perryman, one of the leading temple bowlers of the city, sparked the big timber for games of 204, 193, 234 and a 631 set to win the high set award given each Monday evening to the group of temple bowlers. An unusually large crowd turned out last night and big scores were recorded on all sides.

Tonight at 8 o'clock, the six-team Summer Commercial league swings into play with the Tidwell Company, league leaders, opposed by a second-place team and a strong contender for the lead, the Grand lads, as the feature match.

Allen was so enraged when Hillbrand called only one runner out on an attempted double play that he rushed at the umpire, bumped him with his shoulder and might have struck him had not Lou Gehrig pulled him away.

Home Loan Offices Opened in Atlanta

Temporary offices of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation of Georgia were opened at 1503 William Oliver building Monday, and Frank Holden, manager for the state, began the task of replying to 1,500 inquiries already received from Georgians interested in sharing in the benefits of the "new deal."

Mr. Holden returned from Washington and will leave next Tuesday to meet with other state managers in the capital to receive final instructions for placing the $2,000,000,000 assigned by the government for relief of mortgage burdened home owners. He said he would be back about July 10 and be ready to receive applications.

ASSASSIN IN AUTO MURDERS WOMAN SITTING ON PORCH

CHICAGO, June 26.—(AP)—The slaying of a woman from a passing automobile as she sat on her front porch talking to her 19-year-old son provided police today with a baffling mystery.

The victim was Mrs. Mary Morrison, 36, and she was killed yesterday shortly after returning from church services when a man, accompanied by a small boy, drove slowly by her residence and fired five bullets. Four of them entered her body.

Her son, Joseph Dannanano, said he saw the man distinctly and even chased him for a distance. He said he was a stranger and other members of Mrs. Morrison's family said they knew of no reason for the killing.

She had been married three times and police said they would like to question the third husband, Clyde C. Morrison, believed living in Indiana, from who she was separated. They said they also were considering the possibility that the slaying was a case of mistaken identity.

FORMER DRY AGENT CONVICTED IN SLAYING

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP)—Edward D. Malone, former state policeman and prohibition agent, was convicted late today of manslaughter in the first degree for the slaying of Larry Fay, night club owner, in the Casa Blanca Club New Year's night.

Police departments he urged should make such "crime censuses" in every city as a guide to proper distribution of policemen, patrol cars, and other law enforcing agencies.

In Indianapolis, Professor White's study showed, there were 76 felonies committed and 50 felonies convicted of crimes for each square mile of a zone one mile in radius around the business center of the city in a year.

In the same year, however, in a zone one mile wide but five miles from the city's business center, there were only

People Kill Neighbors and Friends But Rob Strangers, Science Finds

By F. B. COLTON.

CHICAGO, June 26.—(AP)—People are more likely to kill their neighbors and acquaintances than anybody else, but usually steal from total strangers, the American Association for the Advancement of Science was told today.

That was one general conclusion drawn from a study of crime conditions in a large city by Professor R. Hyde White at the University of Indiana. The reason for it is that people are most likely to have quarrels leading to assault or murder with others close at hand. Such crimes are not reasoned out in advance. Robberies, however, are planned beforehand and there is less risk in robbing a stranger.

The number of both crimes and criminals in a city decreased steadily outward from the business center, Professor White found. He made his study in Indianapolis, but said the findings probably were applicable to any large American city.

Police departments he urged should make such "crime censuses" in every city as a guide to proper distribution of policemen, patrol cars, and other law enforcing agencies.

In Indianapolis, Professor White's study showed, there were 76 felonies committed and 50 felonies convicted of crimes for each square mile of a zone one mile in radius around the business center of the city in a year.

In the same year, however, in a zone one mile wide but five miles from the city's business center, there were only

3.7 felonies per square mile and two fellows convicted.

Rates for other mile wide zones per square mile were: Second zone out from center, 20 convictions, 14.8 crimes; third zone, 8.2 convictions, 7.8 crimes; fourth zone, 3.5 convictions, 5.3 crimes. There was a similar decreasing ratio of misdemeanors or minor crimes in the zones progressing outward.

Summarizing, he said the figures showed that a criminal would travel only about .84 of a mile to commit a crime against the person, such as murder or assault, but would go twice as far, about 1.72 miles, for a crime against property such as burglary or robbery.

The average crime, he said, cost every citizen about $3.00, including the expense of maintaining police protection, courts and prisons. Criminals tend to live near districts where business is concentrated, not only in the main business center of a city but in local business centers in outlying sections.

Juvenile offenders travel more than a mile from home for most of their crimes, Professor White found, which indicated, he said, that if young criminals placed on probation were sent to live in another neighborhood they were much less likely to repeat their offenses or start associating with the same companions or "gangs" as formerly.

Crimes are associated with deteriorating property values. He found 54 felonies per 1,000 of the male population in Indianapolis districts where rents were lowest, averaging $15 a month, but less than five per 1,000 in districts where rents were $30 a month and up.

An electric camera, believed by its inventor to solve one of the major problems of television, was announced today after 10 years of research work, before the association.

It is believed to place the television of outdoor scenes in the realm of practicality.

The new device, called an "electroscope" by its designer, Dr. Vladimir Zworykin, of the R. C. A. laboratories at Camden, N. J., was described in a paper he delivered before the annual convention of the Institute of Radio Engineers as having a "sensitivity approximately equal to that of a photographic film operating at the speed of a motion picture camera with the same optical or lens system."

Dr. Zworykin declared it opens new prospects for high-grade television transmission and at the same time "offers wide possibilities in its application in many fields as a substitute for the human eye, or for the observation of phenomena at present completely hidden from the eye, as in the case of the ultra-violet microscope."

Expedition to Search For Jimmie Mattern

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP)—An air expedition in search of Jimmie Mattern, round-the-world flyer lost somewhere between Siberia and Alaska, will leave Floyd Bennett airport Wednesday, it was announced today, composed of personal friends of the missing aviator.

Sponsored by Irving Friedman, Brooklyn broker, the expedition will fly to Nome, Alaska, and establish a base there from which an extensive search will be conducted. In addition to financing the expedition, Friedman has offered the fliers a reward of $5,000 if they bring Mattern back alive.

The plane, the property of Hugh Hensley, co-pilot with Clyde Pangborn on a flight around the world last year, will be piloted by Bill Alexander, who has had three years as a test pilot in Alaska and is thoroughly familiar with conditions there. Other members of the crew will be Fred Fetterman and Harold Pearson, mechanics at Floyd Bennett airport, and Thomas Abbey, a New York motorcycle policeman, who has applied for a leave of absence to take part in the search.

Store's Safe Cracked, Cash, Checks Stolen

Thieves rifled the safe of The Big Store, 37 Whitehall street, some time during the week-end and escaped with about $4,000 worth of securities, checks and cash, according to police reports Monday. The cracksmen, who gained entrance to the store by knocking a hole in the roof, successfully avoided a system of burglar alarms and blew open the safe probably with nitroglycerine, it was reported.

A drill was found beside the safe and a number of other burglars' tools were found in the attic, apparently dropped by the thieves as they fled through the hole in the roof, police said.

TEN EYCK BROWN SLATED TO HEAD PLANNING BOARD

A. Ten Eyck Brown, leading Atlanta architect, probably will be elected Wednesday as chairman of the city planning commission to succeed Robert R. Otis, resigned.

An organization meeting is planned for 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the city hall, and Walter S. McNeal, commission member, said Monday he would place Brown's name before the commission asking unanimous endorsement.

No other commission member has yet been mentioned for the position. J. Houston Johnston is vice chairman.

The planning commission is scheduled to consider a new petition for operation of the curb market on Park street at a session to be held at 2 o'clock. McNeal is chairman of the zoning sub-committee before which the petition will be aired. Previously the commission and council refused to permit operation of the market after July 1.

F. D. R. FOGBOUND NEAR DESTINATION

President Rests While He Awaits Lifting of 'Pea Soup' Barrier.

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.

CAKEMAN HARBOR, ROGUE ISLAND, Maine, June 26.—(AP)—A thick "pea soup" fog which seemed to increase in density during the day held President Roosevelt at anchor in this far-away harbor tonight just around the point from his destination of Campobello Island, N. B.

Spinning yarns of other days and sleeping, the president spent a quiet day off from his strenuous sail up the north Atlantic coast. There was not a chance of getting under way at any time during the long day and he was content to take it easy.

While young Franklin and John gazed anxiously about during the morning hours, Mr. Roosevelt gave them a jolt with a reminder that the last time he was in this harbor 20 years ago, he was marooned for four days and nights by fog.

There was no guessing tonight on when the soggy clouds would lift, and all hands were preparing for a vigil. So thick was the fog that the destroyer Ellis and the navy cutter Cuyahoga, standing by at the entrance to the harbor, could not be seen.

The two newspaper power cruisers anchored very close to the Amberjack II were barely discernible. The secret service launch, making its rounds, could not be seen at times. The little harbor has one wharf and a fisherman's home behind it. Pine trees cover the rocky shores. However, the word spread about that the president was here and craft cautiously peeked their way into the snug port throughout the day bringing citizens from the neighboring points.

Among the visitors was Sheriff James A. Cummings, of Eastport, who knew Mr. Roosevelt when he was at Campobello Island in other years.

Tomorrow, the president will receive a first-hand report of the European situation and particularly the Geneva arms parley from Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American delegation to Geneva.

All plans for the future are in abeyance awaiting the lifting of the fog. A call in Nova Scotia waters has been contemplated, but the president intends to wind up the cruise on Friday.

DAVIS LEAVES BOSTON
FOR TALK WITH ROOSEVELT
BOSTON, June 26.—(AP)—The destroyer Barnard, bearing Norman H. Davis, who recently returned from the Geneva disarmament conference, left here at 7:35 (eastern standard time) tonight for a rendezvous off the Maine coast with President Roosevelt.

The chief executive, a scant 40 miles from his destination, Campobello Island, N. B., after a vacation cruise up the New England coast, will confer with Davis tomorrow aboard the vacation yacht Amberjack II.

Arms Cache Found In Home of Cuban

HAVANA, June 26.—(AP)—Police today said they found firearms and explosives in the Vedado residence of Dr. Agustin Castellanos, brother of Dr. Israel Castellanos, chief of the identification bureau of the secret police.

Forty sticks of dynamite, four rifles, 700 cartridges, a machine gun and several electric batteries were seized by the police, who arrested Dr. Agustin Castellanos, his chauffeur, Victor Morejon, Milian, and Juan Garcia Valcarlos, a janitor.

They were sent to Principe prison pending investigations.

The arms, it was learned later, belonged to members of the A. B. C. secret opposition society who had turned them over to him in evidence of their good faith when the organization accepted Sumner Welles, United States ambassador, as mediator in Cuban political affairs, promising meanwhile to refrain from violence.

Charging Castellanos was struck several times and otherwise roughly treated, members of the organization this evening charged the government with bad faith in seizing the arms.

R. R. JENNINGS HEADS PHOTOGRAPHERS' BODY

R. R. Jennings, president of the Atlanta Photographers' Club, was elected president of the Georgia Photographers' Association at an organization meeting at the Henry Grady hotel Sunday afternoon. The meeting was held to adopt methods of co-operating with the federal industrial recovery administration and the photographers went on record approving the recovery act.

Other officers elected were John B. McCollum, Columbus; Hilmer C. Warlick, Macon; and Walton Reeves, Atlanta, vice presidents; Chester R. Elliott, Atlanta, secretary; Rascena Biggers, Atlanta, treasurer, and F. E. Lee and Owen Lively, of Rome, to serve with the officers as an executive committee.

RAIL SUPERINTENDENT FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

READING, Pa., June 26.—(AP)—R. Boone Abbott, assistant superintendent of the Reading railroad, was found dead in his home here tonight, a bullet through his head. He apparently had been dead since yesterday.

The discovery was made by Isaac T. Tyson, superintendent of the Reading division, a close friend, Abbott, in orders announced Friday from Philadelphia, was to relieve Tyson July 1, as superintendent of the Reading division. Tyson is to be given a leave of absence.

Father Slain in Effort To Prevent Elopement

ATHENS, Ala., June 26.—(AP)—An enraged father who objected to the marriage of his daughter and his nephew, was killed here last night as the climax to a frustrated elopement.

Eldridge Daniels, 22, was in the Limestone county jail today pending filing of charges in the slaying of Guy Barnes, 50, who vertook the younger man and his daughter when their automobile broke into flames.

Officers said Barnes had objected to the marriage of his daughter and Daniels because they were first cousins, and yesterday the youthful couple decided to elope. Barnes pursued them and overtook their car when it caught fire.

Barnes, according to officers, on overtaking the fleeing pair advanced on Daniels with a hammer and was slain, the youth firing three shots, one bullet piercing the heart.

GENERAL ELECTRIC or KELVINATOR ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR

Special Sale Ends Saturday

CUSTOMERS of this Company have purchased more than 2,000 General Electric and Kelvinator Refrigerators since our sale began on May 4. The greatest electric refrigeration values in the history of the industry, plus our special purchase plan, have brought modern, economical refrigeration into this number of Georgia homes in less than two months.

Increases in costs of materials mean increases in prices of both Kelvinator and General Electric Refrigerators. Present low prices cannot last—in fact, we can guarantee present prices only until July 1, the last day of our sale.

GENERAL ELECTRIC is the only electric refrigerator with a four-year guarantee on the complete mechanism—the refrigerator with the famous Monitor Top sealed in steel. In the line are the new 10-Star models, the Standard models and the General Electric "flat-top" models. All are greatly reduced in price and represent unparalleled values. Prices begin at $99.50, plus freight and installation.

KELVINATOR is the only electric refrigerator with four zones of cold—"4 refrigerators in 1"—all completely automatic—nothing to remember, nothing to forget. There are the DeLuxe line, the Standard line and the lower-priced R line beginning at $97.00, plus freight and installation. Kelvinator has announced increases in the prices of all models effective July 1, but we will fill orders as long as our present supply lasts at the old prices.

Come into our nearest store. Choose your General Electric or Kelvinator before prices advance. Take advantage of our liberal budget plan. Pay for your electric refrigerator out of its own savings!

Miss King and Mr. Alsobrook Wed At Church Ceremony in West Point

WEST POINT, Ga., June 26.—The marriage of Miss Sara Julia King to Bryce Northern Alsobrook of LaGrange, was solemnized at the First Methodist church at high noon Sunday. Rev. George L. King, father of the bride and pastor of the church, read the marriage ceremony in the presence of the congregation assembled at the church for morning worship. The organist of the church, Mrs. W. T. Harrison, rendered the nuptial music.

Miss Mary King was her sister's maid of honor and only attendant. J. C. Wilkinson, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man. The bride entered with her brother, George L. King III, by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by Mr. Alsobrook and his best man. During the ceremony "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly" were softly played by Mrs. Harrison, the organist of the church. An effective arrangement of pink gladioli, pink sunnys and cedar of Lebanon gave a bright note of color to palms, ferns and other foliage plants banking the choir loft and the pulpit as a background. A bowl of similar flowers was placed on the piano and seven-branched candelabra holding pink burning tapers gave a soft lighting for the scene.

The maid of honor wore a soft gown of sheer pink chiffon made empire waist with flared skirt. A large white hat and other accessories in white completed her costume and she carried an arm bouquet of pink ranunculus roses.

The radiant loveliness of the bride was enhanced by her ensemble of navy chiffon with white embroidery in lace yoke. She wore a close-fitting straw hat, and other accessories were in blue. Her flowers were a shoulder bouquet of sweetest roses and valley lilies.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served members of the bridal party and out-of-town guests at the parsonage, the home of the bride's parents. Assisting Mrs. King in service

ing were prominent women of the church. The bride's maternal grandparents were the late Judge J. A. McKay and Sally Adams McKay, closely identified with the growth and development of Franklin county, Georgia. Her paternal grandparents, also prominent in Franklin county development, were the late Rev. George L. King Sr. and Julia Vaughter King.

The bridegroom's paternal grandparents were the late Dr. Thomas Northern and Josephine Wilson Northern of Ashland, Ala. His paternal grandparents were the late John Nathaniel Alsobrook and Alice Fuller Alsobrook, of Five Points, Ala.

Out-of-town guests present were Mr. Alsobrook's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Alsobrook; his sisters, Misses Josephine and Ann Alsobrook; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hutchinson, Rev. and Mrs. Iby Henderson, Miss Dora Shepherd and James Gesslin, LaGrange; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wilkinson, Mrs. Ellen Jones and son, Jesse M. Jones, of Roanoke, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Fuller Alsobrook and son, Q. T. Alsobrook, of Five Points, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thomas, Fayette, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. C. G. McKay, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. McKay, Mrs. J. O. Norris and daughter, Miss Lewis Norris; Miss Mildred King and R. H. King, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. McKay, Charleston, S. C.; Miss Olive King, Hazlehurst, Ga.; and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. King, Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Alsobrook left for a short motor trip. On their return they will be at home in their apartment at LaGrange.

Classes Postponed.

Owing to the absence from the city of Mrs. Alice Denton Jennings her Tuesday morning classes in vocational guidance from the hand will be postponed until next week.

Home For Old Women Celebrates 28th Birthday

Monday marked the twenty-eighth anniversary of the founding of the Home for Old Women, on West End avenue, by the late Mrs. Sarah J. Purcell. The occasion was celebrated with a surprise party and a program of music, songs and dances given by the trio pictured above, who included, left to right, Brierly Purcell, Marguerite and Sarah Michael, great-granddaughters of the founder. The children, who are members of the Kiddie Club, were assisted by Jean Harris and Betty Gene Criddle, and accompanied by Miss Jaimie Dupuy, who also rendered a solo. Refreshments, the gift of the Foremost Dairies, were served by the children. Staff photo by George Cornett.

Miss Johnson Hostess In Ormewood Park.

Miss Strickland Weds Dr. John W. Hocker.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 26.—Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Strickland, of Tallahassee, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Glenna Burke Strickland, of New York city, to Dr. John Wesley Hocker, recently of Atlanta. The ceremony took place at the Little Church Around the Corner, 24 N. Peachtree street, on Saturday, June 24. The bridegroom's family, the wedding was a very quiet event, after which Mr. and Mrs. Dale Rogers, friends of the families, entertained with a wedding breakfast at their country estate on the Hudson.

Dr. and Mrs. Hocker left in their car for a week's wedding trip through the Virginia valley, and will stop in Lexington, Va., and in Dr. Hocker's home, Danville, Ky., en route to Chattanooga, where Dr. Hocker has accepted a position as staff physician at the new Children's hospital. At present they will be at home at the Read House.

The bride is the only daughter of the former shell fish commissioner and Mrs. Strickland, formerly of Tallahassee, but now making her home in Pensacola. She is a graduate of Pensacola High school and later attended Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn., where she received a B. S. degree. After graduating she accepted a position as city nutritionist at Greenville, S. C. The last three years she has directed a cafeteria in the New York high schools.

Mrs. Hocker is a talented musician and dramatic reader. She is also a radio artist and has been heard over the Pensacola station and WSM and WLAC in Nashville and a number of New York stations.

Dr. Hocker is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hocker, of Danville, Ky. He received an A. B. degree from Washington and Lee, later doing post graduate work at the University of Virginia and also the University of Kentucky. He graduated from the Vanderbilt hospital. Until now he has been resident physician at Henrietta Children's hospital in Atlanta, Ga., but has accepted a position as staff physician at the new Children's hospital in Chattanooga, Tenn. He is a member of the social fraternity Sigma Phi Epsilon and of the medical fraternity Alpha Kappa Kappa.

Lullwater Garden Club Makes Changes In Constitution

An important amendment to the constitution of the Lullwater Garden Club, changing the time of the election of officers to the November meeting, the installation to be in January, was made at the annual meeting of the club held Friday at the East Lake Country Club. Mrs. Charles E. Waits, the president, was in the chair, and this change was made to comply with the requirements of the Garden Club of Georgia. It was voted that the monthly meetings take place hereafter on the first Friday in every month instead of on the last Friday. It was decided to leave a December meeting and that the club will recess for the summer months. A showing of colored slides featuring the beauty spots in the gardens of the members of Lullwater Garden Club was an enjoyable feature of the program, and tea was served on the al fresco terrace overlooking the lake and the golf course, the tables being adorned with pastel-colored flowers.

Officers and members of the club are Mrs. Charles E. Waits, president; Mrs. H. H. Askew, vice president; J. P. Selman, recording secretary; Mrs. Augustine Sams, treasurer; Mrs. Marion T. Benson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. R. Bean, librarian; Madam Byron Akers, Elwin C. Byrd, Thomas Campbell, W. A. Candler, B. T. Carter, Hugh D. Carter, James J. Clark, Olin S. Cofer, Thos. Conner, Dan H. Rodin, J. L. Brody, J. E. Dickey, H. G. Estel, A. E. Foster, Steve Garrett, Sam J. Guy, J. A. Higgs, I. H. Jordan, Roy Massey, A. C. McHann, Frank L. Penney, R. P. Phillips, George H. Phillips, Albert Pritchard, LeRoy Rogers, J. M. Rooker, E. A. Schiller, H. W. Stephenson, David Thompson, Lindsay Thompson, Ralph Walker, R. H. White and Louise M. Youngs.

Students Will Give Operas In Athens, Ga.

ATHENS, Ga., June 26.—Under the direction of Professor Hugh Hodgson, of Athens and Atlanta, University of Georgia summer school students will present two operas during the session. "Martha" will be given on July 12, and "Faust" on July 14. Mr. Hodgson, who heads the department of music at the university, will be assisted by Miss Claire Harper in the direction of the orchestra, and by Lawrence G. Nelson, of Atlanta, in the chorus work. Although leading singers in the professional world will have the leads in the operas, most of the presentation will be by summer school students. In addition to having parts in the choruses and in the orchestra, they will aid in preparing the stage sets, in making the costumes, and in other ways.

Unique among entertainments for summer school students will be the midnight recital Thursday evening, July 6, on the lawn in front of War Memorial Hall. Professor Hodgson will give a Chopin program, of which "The Moonlight Sonata" will be a special number. Miss Helen Shope, daughter of T. S. Shope, editor of the Dalton Citizen, is enrolled in the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism this summer for the second time in a special feature writing. Miss Shope is one of several children of Georgia editors who have attended the Grady school this year. Among those in attendance during the regular session were Miss Elizabeth Camp, daughter of Edwin Camp, of the Atlanta Journal, and a niece of Julian Harris of the Constitution; Miss Edith Trotter, daughter of R. Trotter, editor of the Crawfordville Advocate-Democrat; and Charles Bickers, son of Dan G. Bickers, editor of the Savannah Morning News. Miss Carolyn Vance and Professor Roosevelt Walker, of the English department, gave readings for summer school students this week. Miss Vance read "Elizabeth, the Queen," in chapel Monday evening and Professor Walker read some outstanding short stories. Professor Malcolm H. Bryan read "Death Takes a Holiday" Monday evening. The physical education department will hold open house Friday evening. A recreation club during which young and old alike will enjoy special dancing is planned under the direction of Miss Marjorie Forchmer.

Peachtree Garden Club Meets at Mrs. Cooney's

Mrs. Robert L. Cooney, president of Peachtree Garden Club, was hostess to the June meeting held Monday afternoon at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue in Druid Hills. Interest accounts were related concerning the annual meeting of the Garden Club of America, which was held in Chicago the first of June, by the group from this section. The group included Mesdames James Edgar Paulin, Robert F. Maddox, Thomas P. Hinman, Vezzey Rainwater, Charles A. Sisson and Miss Nelie Hightower.

Mrs. Malcolm Fleming was in charge of the program, and Mr. Cooney presided at the meeting. Of interest to the club are Mesdames Samuel M. Inman, Phinizy Calhoun, Malcolm Fleming, William H. Kiser and Edwin F. Johnson. Tea was served on an artistically decorated table, and members were invited to stroll in Mrs. Cooney's charming garden, which is one of the beauty spots of Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. Ogletree Celebrate Anniversary.

Mrs. Lorenz N. Hiers, Mrs. Virginia Ogletree and Miss Louise Ogletree entertained Sunday at their home in compliment to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Vernon Ogletree, who celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary.

The table in the dining room was covered with a cloth of red lace and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, resting on a mound of multi-colored garden flowers.

Miss Virginia Ogletree rendered a program of vocal numbers, accompanied by Miss Wills Beckham. Punch was served by Misses Rachel Spratlin, Mary McCullough and Lillian Lee. Sixty friends called between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock.

Stovall—Lee.

LEESBURG, Ga., June 26.—Announcement of the surprise marriage of Robert Bagley Lee and Miss Flora Stovall at Tallahassee, Fla., Sunday, June 3, is of interest to a wide circle of friends in this section. The couple motored to Tallahassee, where the ceremony was performed by Judge W. May Warkey at his home. The marriage was kept secret until the announcement Thursday. The bride is the daughter of Mr. Henry D. Stovall and the late Mrs. Adelaide Thomas Stovall. Attended Andrew College at Cuthbert, and is a graduate of the class of 1933 of the Leesburg High school.

Mr. Lee is a son of Mr. Eliza B. Lee Sr. and the late Mrs. Minnie Heath Lee; he is a graduate of the Leesburg High school, he is one of the city's most successful and progressive young men.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee are residing at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Lee Sr. on Broad street.

Guthman-Goldwasser Wedding Takes Place Wednesday Evening

Among the interesting weddings of the week will be that of Miss Irma Guthman and David Goldwasser, of Los Angeles, Cal., which will be solemnized at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sig Guthman, on North Decatur road.

Rabbi David Marx will read the marriage service which will be witnessed only by members of the families of the bride-elect and the bridegroom-elect. Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Guthman will entertain at a reception, inviting a large throng of friends to meet their daughter and Mr. Goldwasser.

Miss Elizabeth Morgan, pianist, will render the nuptial music. Miss Evelyn Guthman will be her sister's maid of honor, and another sister, Mrs. Charles Field, will act as matron of honor.

Leo Bloch and Ralph Rosenbaum Jr. will be the ushers. Charles Held, Mrs. George Roberts, and Harris Goldwasser will attend his brother as best man. Sig Guthman will give his daughter in marriage.

Following a wedding trip, Mr. Goldwasser and his bride will make their home in Los Angeles.

A series of prenuptial parties has been held in compliment to Miss Guthman and her fiancé, Mr. and Mrs. Sig Guthman will entertain at a buffet supper this evening at their home. Following the wedding rehearsal, the guests will include the members of the two families.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Held, brother and sister of the bride-elect, entertained at dinner last evening at their home on Oakdale road. Dinner was served in the garden and the guests included a group of members of the young married contingent.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Goldwasser, parents of the bridegroom-elect, were hosts at dinner Sunday at their Oxford road residence, honoring their son and Miss Guthman. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buchwald, brother and sister of Mr. Goldwasser, entertained at supper Saturday evening at their home on Memorial drive.

Among the guests from a distance who will attend the wedding are Mrs. Jesse Beck, of Birmingham, and Mrs. Sig Guthman will entertain at a buffet supper this evening at their home. Following the wedding rehearsal, the guests will include the members of the two families.

Roberts-Marquardt Rites Set For June 30

Miss Frances Roberts, whose engagement to Louie Philip Marquardt Jr. was recently announced by her mother, Mrs. Frances Roberts, has chosen Friday, June 30, for her wedding day. The ceremony will be solemnized at the home of the bride-elect's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Greer Z. Roberts, 219 Peachtree road. The Rev. R. D. Tyler, former pastor of the Grace Methodist church, will perform the ceremony in the presence of a number of relatives and friends.

The bride-elect will be given in marriage by her brother, Greer Z. Roberts, and her sister, Miss Eugenia Roberts, will be her maid of honor and only attendant. Mr. Marquardt will have his brother, E. F. Marquardt, as his best man. Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. Greer Z. Roberts will entertain at a reception. Mrs. L. P. Marquardt, mother of the bridegroom-elect, and Miss Eugenia Roberts, of Pittsburgh, Pa., will assist in entertaining.

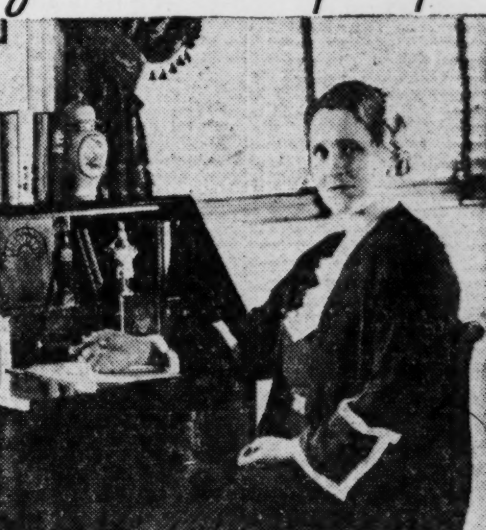

Mr. Marquardt and his bride will leave following the reception for a wedding trip to Highlands, N. C., and upon their return will take possession of their attractive apartment at 2251 Peachtree road.

Mr. Loridans To Give French Lecture Series

This afternoon at 4 o'clock in room 103 Theology building, Charles Loridans will begin a series of three weekly lectures for the Institut Français at Emory University. The title of the series is "The Three Emperors of France—Josephine, Marie Louise, and Eugenie." These lectures will be not only a discussion of the emperors themselves, but will include a study of the life and manners, the history, civilization and literature of the periods in which they lived. The first lecture will treat of Josephine and the early career of Napoleon Bonaparte when he was a rather unknown officer of artillery. The public is invited to hear this interesting study of important periods in the history of France.

There will be musical numbers which will be announced later. These lectures are held each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon during the session of the institute, which consists of courses in the French language and literature in conjunction with the Maison Française, where is found French life in miniature under the supervision of two French ladies, Madame Malbrant and Madame Pouliard Davis.

Atlanta League of Women Voters Plan Semi-Annual Meet July 11

The semi-annual meeting of the Atlanta League of Women Voters will be held Tuesday, July 11, at the Emory University Women's Club. Mrs. Sinclair Jacobs, president of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, will preside. It has been the custom for many years for the Atlanta League to have the semi-annual program in the form of an all-day meeting; luncheon is served at noon, with an hour of social activity between the two business sessions.

There will be a checkup of all the work accomplished in the first six months of the year and a comparison made with the program as mapped out at the annual meeting in January. Definite plans will be made to complete the work planned at the annual meeting. Everyone interested in the League is invited to attend this meeting, but reservations must be made in advance for the luncheon, for which a nominal charge will be made. Reservations may be made by calling League headquarters, Walnut 8472, any morning between 9 and 12 o'clock.

The series of meetings led by Mrs. R. L. Turman, at which the proposed school code was studied in detail, have been successfully completed and representatives from the Teachers' Association, the P. T. A. and League of Women Voters attended. These women are prepared to start other groups of study, according to Mrs. Turman. While there are slight changes to be made this code is a credit to the men who spent so much time and thought compiling it.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER—GETTING HIS JUST DESSERTS

BEYOND THE DOOR

by Carol Brown

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: Frederick Von Veb is stabbed to death in his top floor studio as Brent, head of an art firm; Mathewson, another artist; and Sprague, Von Veb's nephew, chat outside his door after leaving him alone. The clay used of a statue Von Veb was modeling holds a dagger, which Papa Marat, once a roving newspaper correspondent but now proprietor of the basement restaurant, loosed to Virginia, a pretty model. She admits to Manning Colby that she quarreled with Von Veb while posing for him, then went down the fire escape to the studio of four college youngsters, self-styled the Morons, before coming up to Manning's fourth floor studio. Quirt, across the hall from Von Veb, says he heard nothing. He leaves next day for an artist's camp. In his nervous excitement Manning tells the police he was out all the evening of the murder although he was out only to dine at Marat's old restaurant. Marat, who had been modeling a statue of a woman, says he saw a woman take her home in a taxi. At her door a woman with a dagger in her hand was seen. Schenck, now go on with the story.

INSTALLMENT XXVI

Before Manning had finished the story there was a knock on his door. It was Inspector Morris. He wanted to know when Manning had last seen Virginia. Manning told him he had seen her talking to Pete in the hallway along about noon. Then he wanted to know whether Manning had seen Sprague. Manning told him he had seen him also about noon. He told him the circumstances—and was glad when he left seemingly satisfied with his replies.

Another knock on the door about midnight brought Mathewson holding the paper in his hand as though it were a poison thing.

"I don't believe it," he said. "I suppose you don't know a thing about it."

Manning was strongly tempted to confide in him, but he shook his head. "No! But, say, when did you last see Sprague?"

"Just after you left the building this noon," Mathewson told him. "While he was making all the fuss about the disappearance of the papers he had gotten from Von Veb's studio. He was pretty much agitated. He said something about Virginia and telephoning to find out where she'd gone."

and left the building. It seemed rather queer, or at least it does now. Perhaps I've done the wrong thing—but I didn't mention it to the inspector."

Manning went over to their table and peered over the man's shoulder. The blood drained from his heart, leaving him limp, then surged back again, pounding through his veins. There on the front was Virginia's face smiling up at him from under a big garden hat—every lovely line distinct. The picture was from a portrait Mathewson had done for her. It had appeared in local papers before. He read the lines beneath it: "Missing Beauty. Possibly Involved in Murder. Escapes Police." Black headlines danced before his eyes: "Model May Be Involved in Murder of Sculptor, Youth Confesses."

Manning bought a paper and took it up to his studio before he so much as opened it.

According to the news story, "the youth," Pete, had gone to the police with his tale earlier in the evening. Probably, Manning reflected, he had nursed his grievance all afternoon before arriving at a definite decision. It was fortunate that he had. Otherwise Manning could not possibly have talked to Anusha as he had, along about dinner time, because, because, just a short time later perhaps, she had been questioned, for the newspaper stated: "The Russian woman professed to know nothing about the girl's whereabouts although the police suspected that she was holding something back."

Pete, it seemed, had explained that the Morons were having sort of a party in their studio when Von Veb was killed; that Virginia had stepped out for a few minutes; that when the boys, inquiring of the policeman in the hall, Sprague, who had been thought to have something to do with the forged check they themselves had given Von Veb as a joke; that they thought that Virginia's being out of their studio at the time the murder was committed might look suspicious and they agreed not to mention it.

Manning was glad he had not. He was more so because he knew that Sprague had something to do with Virginia's disappearance.

Manning's conviction that Sprague had something to do with Virginia's disappearance grew when Sprague did not return during the night. He went down and knocked at his door at intervals, not giving up until he heard the clink of the milkman's horse and the clink of bottles along about 5 o'clock in the morning. Then he lay down and fell into an exhausted sleep, to wake about 8 o'clock and knock again on Sprague's door.

All through the morning he searched for him not too obviously. He was afraid to do that, but with apparent aimlessness he wandered about Sprague's haunts, calling at intervals to the studio building to see if Sprague had by any chance returned. He knocked on Quirt's apartment door, but Quirt, who had been away, he had left an old ex-bartender, who occasionally helped him, in charge of his restaurant and he had no notion where the proprietor had gone.

He was feverishly anxious to know whether Papa Marat had received the letter from Virginia that Anusha was to have mailed. He looked through the glass front in Papa Marat's mailbox and saw among other envelopes a small one of delicate paper such as a woman might use, but the handwriting was hidden. Even if it had been visible he was not familiar with Virginia's handwriting. He watched almost as frantically for the return of the old man as he did for that of Sprague. He longed to break the glass front of that box.

At 6 o'clock he was sitting in his studio, his thoughts hopelessly following one impulse after another. And when he heard a knock on his door he leaped eagerly to his feet. It would be Papa Marat, of course.

He was so sure of this that when he opened the door and found old Dan standing there he looked at him unseeing. The bent old figure, with its abnormally long arms and the staring blood-shot eyes, registered themselves upon the retina of his eyes but not upon his brain.

Even the old man's voice was not real. The words he was saying meant nothing to Manning.

"I suppose maybe you thought I wouldn't come back."

"Why not," Manning said. "Er—yes—yes—what is it?"

He didn't have enough sense to ask the old man in, but Dan entered, closed the door, and seated himself as on his last visit, in Manning's only comfortable chair.

"Well," he announced, "yer time's up today."

"What?" Manning asked vaguely. The old man nodded dolefully. "I see the thing's got on yer mind. Well, I sh'd think it would. You do look pretty bad. Yer face is kinda green and peaked like, and ye ain't had a shave fer a long time. I sh'd think ye'd get out. You still got time."

And then it came to Manning. Of course! Old Dan was to report him to the police—this would be his last day—the seventh day—he would report him today. But it didn't seem to make any particular difference.

"Well," the old voice went on, "I'm giving you three hours more."

Three hours more? It came to Manning with staggering force that it did make a difference—a tremendous difference. Only a few hours to reach Virginia—why time was the most important thing in the world—only three hours!

"Why—you can't do that tonight!" he protested. "You can't! You'll wait until tomorrow, of course. I must have more time. I must wait! I tell you, you must wait!"

There was a gleam of satisfaction in the redrimmed old eyes. It was pleasant to have one of these stuck-up artists—these men who hardly noticed him except for a good-humored joke about his cleaning the hallway—it was pleasant to have one of them begging of him.

But he shook his head. "Oh, no, I couldn't hardly do that. It's becuz I know so much more 'bout I'm givin' you this extra time. I'm a' givin' you until 8 o'clock. I suppose you're a wonderin' why I come back?"

"I can't say that I am," Manning reflected. Now that his lethargy had disappeared, he was becoming impatient.

"I come to bring back your $2,000—most of it."

He waited a moment, his face alight with senile anticipation, for the effect of his words. But Manning showed no response to the munificent offer. Two thousand dollars? What was $2,000. He needed time, not money—time!

"Don't you understand? I'm bringin' in 'it back'—that's all 'bout $243. I spent $8 gettin'—well, here I been all week. And eight to get my grand-daughter, Goldie, there, and eight to get back here today—that's $24— and $10.58 while I was there—and three cents to send a letter to you. That totals $34.61. I've got it written out and added up fer yer here. Here it is, and here's more 'bout it. Dan handed him a box tied with a dirty string.

"Thanks," Manning said quite absently. "Now if you could wait until tomorrow morning."

"No!" he shook his head again stubbornly. "No! Listen here, young fellow. You ain't even askin' why I brought this back, but I'm gonna tell you. You young people of this day don't know what a conscience means. But I gotta conscience. I've told you I was a member of the Holiness Sect when I was sixteen. As long as I thought you was a murderer, I felt like maybe the Lord just sort of put you in my way. But now I know you ain't, it's different. When I seen the papers last night and seen it was that girl—"

Manning sprang at him, roused at last. "Shut your mouth, you dirty sneaking old—"

The old man spoke mildly, as he had when Manning had threatened him once before. "Now I seen the papers, didn't I? An' Goldie told me somethin' too. She said the night old Von Veb was killed that girl—oh well you ain't interested in hearin' me talk."

"I am," Manning said. "I am. Sit down!" He was interested now—desperately interested—in what Dan had to say.

trict chapter of the Reserve Officers' Association will hold a combined business meeting and Dutch supper at 6 o'clock Wednesday night at the Elks Club.

Civilian Club of Atlanta will hold its weekly luncheon at 12:30 o'clock today at the Atlanta Athletic Club. Robert Ramspeck, congressman from this district, will speak on "Observations on the Recent Session of Congress."

Choir of the Moore Memorial Presbyterian church will give a concert at 8 o'clock Friday night at the church, under the leadership of Mrs. Lessie McMichael. The program will include choruses and vocal and instrumental solos, with Carl Millard as accompanist.

Federal grand jury Monday returned 13 true bills and were excused until 10 o'clock this morning when further bills will be considered.

Colonel T. L. Alexander, commanding the 122nd infantry, Georgia national guard, appeared before the county commissioners in special session Monday afternoon and asked that the county's appropriation to the guard unit be reinstated due to pressing financial affairs of the guard. The appropriation, approximately $2,500 annually, was cut off in the middle of last year during the county retrenchment program. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Judge Virlyn B. Moore Monday tentatively set the hearing of contempt proceedings against James L. Respass, county auditor, for 3 o'clock this afternoon. The citizens' committee, while probing county affairs, sought to cite him for contempt when he refused allegedly to show the 588 bonds of $1,000 denomination each. He agreed Monday to take two, Alderman E. A. Gilliam one and Councilman Max M. Cuba another.

"I am convinced that the bonds are valid and that the federal government would lend money to the city on them," Mayson said. "We certainly should attempt to have them so absorbed as a part of the federal fund to aid cities."

BARGE LINE OFFICIAL DIES IN NEW ORLEANS. NEW ORLEANS, La., June 26.—(AP)—William H. DeFrance, 74, executive general agent for the Mississippi Valley Barge Lines, operating between Cincinnati and New Orleans, and one of the organizers of the service, died of his home here after an extended illness. The body was taken to Haynesville, La., today for interment.

He previously had been port supervisor for the New Orleans harbor board and an executive of the Texas & Pacific railroad.

DR. HORRAT HOLCOMB. DELAND, Fla., June 26.—(AP)—Dr. Horrat Jay Holcomb, 73, retired New York physician, who had made Deland his home for 17 years, died yesterday. He practiced medicine in New York for 40 years, retiring in 1917. Surviving is a sister, Mrs. M. J. Taylor, of Newark, N. J. Funeral services and burial will be held here tomorrow.

J. E. HARDIN. MOREHEAD CITY, N. C., June 26.—(AP)—J. E. Hardin, secretary of the Proximity Manufacturing Company, of Greensboro, died in a hospital here today from injuries sustained several days ago in an automobile wreck.

GARBO WILL RETURN TO SWEDISH HOME. STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 26.—(AP)—Greta Garbo will definitely return to Stockholm at the end of her two-year Hollywood film contract, Dagens Nyheter said today.

The newspaper added that the actress recently purchased property near the city and will completely modernize it.

New Religious Colony Is Planned by Voliva. ZION, Ill., June 26.—(AP)—Willough Glenn Voliva says he is going to strike out anew, and build an other colony elsewhere.

The religious overseer of Zion, who contends the earth is flat, and against whom a petition in bankruptcy was filed in Walpole, made this announcement last night.

"With 50 cents in the palm of my hand to start with, in 12 months' time I'll build a bigger and better Zion City than ever before," he said.

His remark recalled the statement made back in 1907, after he succeeded Alexander Dowrie as head of the Christian Catholic Apostolic church. It was then that he told a court that his assets were exactly 33 cents.

WYKOFF WATCHES. Frank Wykoff, only official world record holder for the 100 at 9.4 seconds, saw Ralph McCallie run that fast in the N. C. A. A. century and expressed relief that he wasn't in that race.

CITY MAY ASK U. S. TO TAKE UP BONDS

City Attorney Favors Federal Aid After Securities Go Begging.

Failure of the city to obtain bids for $588,000 worth of municipal bonds held by the bond sinking fund commission, Monday left two avenues open to the government with the probability that both will be tested.

City Attorney James L. Mayson was studying the possibility of offering the $588,000 worth of refunding bonds authorized by council and already validated by Fulton county courts to the federal government as security for a loan of that amount, and Mayor James L. Key proposed to offer the securities to the public of Atlanta.

Bond attorneys have questioned the validity of any attempt to sell the bonds, but Mayson said Monday afternoon that the government contemplated purchase of municipal bonds and he saw no reason why the refunded bonds could not be absorbed.

He planned to take the matter up with the mayor at once, and there is every probability that this avenue will be tested first.

In the event of failure of Mayson's plan, Key will ask Atlanta to take the 588 bonds of $1,000 denomination each. He agreed Monday to take two, Alderman E. A. Gilliam one and Councilman Max M. Cuba another.

"I am convinced that the bonds are valid and that the federal government would lend money to the city on them," Mayson said. "We certainly should attempt to have them so absorbed as a part of the federal fund to aid cities."
